

Council vote 3-5

Hiring of economic director rejected

By JOE KELL

Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

By a 5-3 vote, the City Council decided Monday night not to hire an economic development director recommended by the Economic Development Board.

The action ended several weeks of controversy over hiring a replacement for Bill Hall, former director.

Being considered for the position was Charles (Chuck) Elliott, Trenton, Mo., at a proposed salary of $14,000 a year.

Voting against hiring Elliott were: Second Ward Democrats Ira Knox and Raymond Bales; Third Ward Democrats Carl Franklin and Bob Wells; and Fourth

Ward Democrat Lee Garrison. Voting in favor were First Ward Republican Don Broadus, First Ward Democrat Jesse Robinson and Fourth Ward Republican George Dugan Jr.

On Nov. 19, several members for the Economic Development Board appeared before the council to request permission to conduct interviews to select a man to recommend to the council for hiring. At that time, the council voted 6-1 to conduct interviews. Franklin was the only councilman to vote against the interviews. Garrison was absent.

At the Dec. 17 council meeting, Broadus, chairman of the Economic Development Board, announced that Elliott was the board's selection.

A straw vote was taken in a pre-council meeting that night, and the council voted 4-3 against hiring Elliott. Bales was absent and at Broadus' request, an official vote was delayed until Bales could be present.

Before the vote was taken Monday night, Bales read a statement giving his reasons for voting against Elliott. In his statement, Bales, who as a member of the Economic Development Board voted Dec. 13 to recommend Elliott's hiring, said, "With the stand I have taken on the mayor issue, and the economic situation as it is at this time, also there seems to be as many against it as there is for it, I cannot vote for a director with a large salary at this time."

Bales said in his statement that had he been able to attend the last council meeting, he probably would have voted to hire Elliott. But he said that would have been a "mistake."

Bales said he didn't make his decision on which way to vote until Monday. He said of the 10 telephone calls he received, eight were against hiring a director, and 13 of the 19 letters he received were against hiring a director.

During the discussion before and after the vote, various councilmen said they were not voting on the qualifications of the man being considered for the job, but only the question of employing an economic director.

Garrison said, "I've stated before, this should lay until the mayor issue is settled, and then both jobs should be combined."

Franklin, Wells and Knox all gave the current energy crisis as a reason for voting against hiring Elliott.

After the vote was taken, Elliott, who was present, told Broadus he would still like to be considered for the job if the council should change its mind.

He also talked to the councilmen who voted against hiring him, and assured them he understood their positions.

Before the final vote was taken, Broadus spoke to Elliott, who was sitting in the audience, and said: "I don't know how the council is going to vote, but it's the position they are voting on, not on you."

Elliott, 48, is currently assistant executive director of the Green Hills Regional Planning and Development Commission, which includes nine counties in North Central Missouri. Prior to that he was director of economic development for the region.

His background includes experience in industry, and auditing and accounting. Elliott said he is scheduled to take the examination next May to be designated a certified industrial developer.

After the vote was taken, Adam Fischer, attorney and member of the Economic

Court trims rule on evidence

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today narrowed the scope of a judicial device that allows suspects in criminal cases to suppress evidence that police have gathered illegally.

By a 6-3 vote, the court trimmed the controversial "exclusionary rule," a major source of complaints that criminals go free on technicalities.

The court held that prosecutors may summon witnesses before grand juries and demand that they answer questions based on evidence police have gathered in unlawful searches or seizures.

The decision dealt only with the grand jury question, leaving intact the present effect of the rule when defendants reach trial.

The rule forbids use of evidence or fruits of evidence that have been gathered in violation of the Fourth Amendment prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizures.

The rule was established by judicial decision to prevent unlawful police conduct by denying law enforcement machinery the results of that conduct.

In other decisions today, the high court: —Limited the government's use of federal mail fraud law to prosecute illegal use of credit cards — a decision which government attorneys said in advance would sharply limit fraud prosecutions in the $60-billion industry. The vote was 5-4.

—Ruled 8-1 that workers who strike over safety conditions in mines may be required to submit their grievances to arbitration.

The decision on the exclusionary rule reversed an appeals court ruling in a case which originated in Ohio.

Jones and Garrison file for re-election

The still-hazy city election picture this spring was brought into sharper focus Tuesday with the filings of Republican Mayor Jerry Jones and Democratic Fourth Ward Councilman Lee D. Garrison.

Jones, who was elected in April, 1970, after serving one term as a Third Ward councilman, Tuesday said he filed for re-election "because, although much has been accomplished, there still remains much to be done." Garrison was not available for comment.

Mayor Jerry Jones

Jones, the first candidate to file for any city office, said he filed Tuesday "because there wasn't any use in waiting around." The deadline for filing for the March 5 primary, when candidates for Mayor and four City Council seats will be selected by the Republican and Democratic parties, is Feb. 4. The election itself will be April 2.

At a press conference held in his Municipal Building office, Jones distributed copies of an 11-point platform which, he emphasized, "represents my own personal platform and not specifically that of the Republican party. However, I anticipate several of the policies will probably be embraced also by them."

Jones' statement of principles and programs is as follows:

- ✓ Initiate and support further park improvements and continuation of the city recreation program.
- ✓ Enlarged services for senior citizens and handicapped people.
- ✓ Continued sound fiscal policy making possible additional lowering of property taxes.

- ✓ Continued effort to upgrade all city streets, improve street lighting program, update and enforce zoning ordinances, enforce all other city ordinances and support city beautification program.
- ✓ Finalize and implement plans for a comprehensive city storm sewer program.
- ✓ Continued upgrading of city employee wages and benefits to realistic levels.

- ✓ Continued upgrading of city buildings, facilities and all services.
- ✓ Initiate and support additional sanitary sewer improvements with financial help for people affected.
- ✓ Support an enlarge sanitation program with special emphasis on re-cycling.

- ✓ Investigate and, if feasible, initiate emergency rescue vans located at the municipal fire stations.
- ✓ Continued effort to secure federal and state funds to support local programs.

"These (platform proposals) may sound like pipe dreams, but I think they are all very possible and I can't think of one that we can't justify," Jones said.

Reflecting on his past four years in office, Jones indicated he felt the restoration of soundness to the city financial picture was one of the "greatest accomplishments during my period in office."

"I really didn't have any set answers with which to try and change the city financial picture at the beginning," Jones said. "I just realized that we had to have more money if we wanted to make any substantial improvements in the city at all."

December wholesale prices near record

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new surge in food prices combined with exploding fuel costs to drive wholesale prices to near-record levels in December, the government reported today.

Wholesale price increases usually are quickly transmitted into sharply higher prices at retail and will be reflected in the coming weeks at outlets across the country.

December's increase brought wholesale prices to a level 18.2 per cent above a year ago, closing out 1973 with the worst record in more than 25 years.

The Labor Department said the wholesale price index rose 2.2 per cent last month on a seasonally adjusted basis and 2.5 per cent on an unadjusted basis.

Wholesale prices, which fell in September and October, began climbing in November as the inflationary effects of the fuel shortage and the Arab oil cut-off began to show their impact on the economy.

Prices of farm products, processed foods and feed reversed a three month decline and rose sharply in December by 1.4 per cent, the report said.

Consumer foods, those bought by suppliers ready for the supermarket, rose five-tenths of one per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis and showed a 1.3 per cent rise before seasonal pricing patterns were taken into account.

The explosive increase in energy prices that began in November continued last month but at a more moderate level.

Wholesale prices of fuels and other energy products jumped 12.3 per cent following November's record increase of 19.3 per cent.

Leading the big rise in energy prices were costs of middle distillate fuels, mostly home heating oil, up 27 per cent, and light distillate fuels, mostly kerosene, which rose 29 per cent.

Wholesale gasoline prices jumped another 17 per cent in December, following a record 34.7 per cent increase the previous month. Crude oil prices were up 5 per cent; electric power 1.8 per cent; and coal seven tenths of one per cent.

Chairman Herbert Stein of the President's Council of Economic Advisers said higher prices for petroleum and other energy products accounted for 40 per cent of the wholesale price increase in December.

"We are now going through an essentially one-time adjustment to higher energy prices and we are still making an adjustment to relatively short food supplies," Stein said.

"These adjustments, which are producing such skyrocketing prices, will come to an end," he added.

George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, said: "There must be an immediate end to the administration's economic policy that is aimed only at protecting the profits of corporations and banks while forgetting about the vast majority of the American people who work for a living."

Rep. William Randall . . .
opposed to gas rationing

Randall is seeking energy crisis facts

The energy crisis dominated Rep. William J. Randall's "press conference" with the public Monday afternoon. The hour-long session was held at the Bothwell Hotel, with about 60 people present.

"The one thing that is predominantly on the minds of people is the energy crisis, and particularly gas rationing," Randall said in opening remarks.

Randall said one of the biggest problems was getting reliable information on the energy situation. "If there is an Arab oil embargo, it looks very much like we have an information embargo too," he said.

The Fourth District Democrat said he would soon convene the House Subcommittee on Legal and Monetary Affairs, of which he is chairman, to try to get facts on the rapid rise in gas and fuel oil prices. He also called for a "National Energy Information Act" so dependable data on the energy crisis can be compiled.

Randall cited federal energy czar William Simon's revised estimate of a 5 per cent shortage of crude oil, down from an original figure of 25 per cent, as an example of unreliable data.

Stating his firm opposition to gas rationing, Randall said the system would invite counterfeiting and black marketeering and would hurt commuters who must drive many miles to their jobs.

Randall said one reason he voted against a House energy policy bill was because it did not give farming a high enough priority. He called agriculture one of the few "bright spots" in the national economic picture.

The nation is fortunate to have large coal reserves, Randall said, calling this a prime source of energy in the short-haul. He also reiterated his support for the Truman Dam, noting that hydro-electric power is pollution free.

Topics touched on during a question and answer period:

- ✓ There is no ready answer to last week's surge in gas prices, Randall said he

Sedalia men vie for top Jaycee honors

Ben Pummill

Six local citizens have been nominated for the Sedalia Jaycee's Outstanding Young Man award. Announcement of the winner will be made at the Jaycee's annual Distinguished Service Awards banquet at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Holiday Inn.

The nominees are Ben Pummill, 2601 Clarendon Drive; Stephen Laslo, 1601 South Barrett; Robert Liston, 507 Sunset Drive; Ron Jones, 1900 South Limit; Larry C. Melton, 2314 West First Street Terrace; and Roger Garlich, 2605 South Quincy.

Pummill, 35, a local barber, has been associated with Sedalia Junior League football for five years, having served as a coach and manager for two years and as president in 1972. Also in 1972, Pummill headed a special committee to raise funds to send the Sedalia Junior Babe Ruth baseball team to regional tournaments in North Dakota, Missouri and Arkansas.

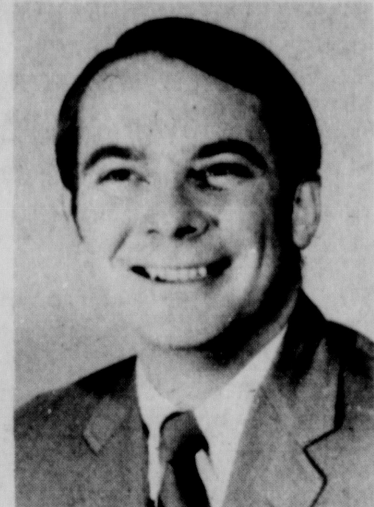

An active member of the local Elks club for 14 years, Pummill has also served as secretary-treasurer for Barber Union Local 259 and was a state delegate to Jefferson City for a special Senate hearing.

Pummill has served on the Sedalia Park Board since June, 1972, and was elected vice-president in June, 1973. At the request of the City Council, Pummill voluntarily organized and supervised an experimental, city-wide recreation program which later resulted in the employment of a full-time city recreation director in September. Pummill is also on the administrative board of Epworth United Methodist Church and serves with his wife as a sponsor of the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

Pummill, and his wife, Shirley, have four daughters, Lisa, 14, Robyn and Rebecca, 10, and Dena, 8.

Laslo, 29, has been director of Project WESCENMO since 1973. He is a graduate of Immaculate Conception College, Troy, N.Y., and studied, on the graduate level, theology and urban studies at Catholic Theological Union and Loyola University, Chicago.

Roger A. Garlich

Before coming to Sedalia, Laslo was for several years a medical social worker and community liaison with a city hospital serving Evanston and Chicago. During his college and graduate education, Laslo was a Franciscan Friar, acting on educational programs for children and young adults in New York and Illinois.

Laslo was recently appointed by Edward Pelouquin, director of comprehensive health planning, to the Neighborhood and Area Health Centers Task Force of the Governor's Advisory Council for Comprehensive Health Planning.

Stephen A. Laslo

A member of Sacred Heart Church, Laslo is also a member of the Missouri Association for Social Welfare and the Marshall Regional Council for Developmental Disabilities. Laslo, and his wife, Therese, have two children, Maggie, 23 months, and Stephen, three months.

Liston, 28, a Sedalia attorney since April, 1971, has recently completed work as campaign chairman of the 1973 Sedalia-Pettis County United Way campaign which successfully met its goal of $96,000. He also served as business campaign chairman of the Pettis County Heart Fund.

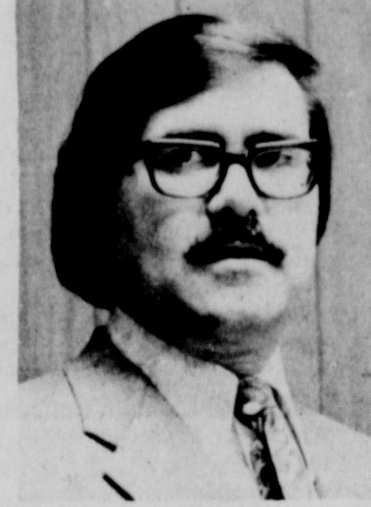

Robert M. Liston

Liston, a graduate of St. Louis University and the University of Missouri-Columbia law school, has also been active in the Sedalia Jaycees where he has served as secretary.

Liston was elected city prosecutor in 1972 and has also served as president and is currently serving as secretary of the Pettis County Bar Association. He is also a member of the Sedalia evening Lions Club and the Broadway Presbyterian Church, where he has served as president and is currently secretary of the Mariners Sunday School class.

Liston and his wife, Lana, have one daughter, Andrea, 2½. Ron Jones, secretary of the manager at Duke Manufacturing Co.

Various offices held by Jones in organizations have included: president of the Prosser, Washington Kiwanis Club, 1969; director of the Four Rivers Comprehensive Health Care Center, 1969; chairman of the Sedalia March of Dimes, 1964; treasurer and chairman of the Pettis County University of Missouri Extension Council; vice-president and president of the Pettis County Manufacturers Association; vice-president and president of the Pettis County GOP club; county coordinator for the Bond for Governor Committee and campaign manager for State Senator John C. Ryan in 1972. Jones has also served on the board of directors for the Sedalia-Pettis County United Way. He is also a high priest of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints and a member of the High Council for the church in Missouri. Jones and his wife, Nancy, have two children, Ronny, 7, and Lori, three months.

Melton, 30, is an instructor in sociology and contemporary issues at Smith-Cotton High School and is president of the Scott Joplin Festival Developmental Disabilities Plan.

Garlich and his wife, Suzanne, are the parents of two children, Stacey, 3, and Bradley, 4.

Melton has been instrumental in introducing progressive innovations in the education and training of mentally and physically retarded children.

Under his guidance, the first sheltered workshop in the state was started. This facility employs persons age 16 and older whose mental or physical handicaps prevent their employment on the competitive job market. Garlich has since served as president of the State Association for Sheltered Workshops.

Another improvement implemented by Garlich was the establishment seven years ago of a mobile speech and hearing services van equipped to provide speech and hearing therapy on a mobile basis.

Garlich has been a member of the Sedalia Jaycees, has served as president of the Pettis County Nursing Service and chairman of the Marshall Regional Council for Developmental Disabilities. He is a member of the Mid-Missouri Muscular Dystrophy Association and is a board member on the local United Cerebral Palsy organization. He has also co-authored a formal paper, "The Marshall Regional Developmental Disabilities Plan."

Programs outlined for club

Members of the Sedalia Rotary Club Monday learned of the state and federally funded educational and vocational training programs for the disadvantaged and handicapped from Mrs. Judith Stumpf, who is director of the programs for State Fair Community College.

It was the regular meeting of the club held at noon at Ramada Inn.

With the aid of slides, Mrs. Stumpf outlined the several courses of study and training currently being offered to more than 400 adult students in a five-county area comprised of Pettis, Henry, Lafayette, Johnson and Saline Counties.

William Tweed, January program chairman, arranged the program and introduced the speaker, who was aided in her presentation by James Bogue, who is in charge of job placement of students who have completed their training.

Robert Phillips, club president, announced the local club had an attendance average of 83.24 per cent for November, bachelors and master's degrees in history from Central Missouri State University, Warrensburg, and has also studied at the University of Missouri-Columbia.

Melton has been instrumental in reviving local interest in the work of ragtime composer Scott Joplin and was a primary force behind the establishment of the upcoming Scott Joplin Ragtime Festival which will honor the composer of the Maple Leaf Rag.

Melton and his wife, Karen, have one son, John, 6.

Garlich, 34, is director of the Virginia Flower Child Development and Rehabilitation Center, where he has been employed since 1962. Garlich has been instrumental in introducing progressive innovations in the education and training of mentally and physically retarded children.

Newspaper industry asks for wage-price exemptions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The newspaper industry has asked the Cost of Living Council to exempt it completely from government wage-price controls.

In a petition filed before the council last Friday, the American Newspaper Publisher's Association (ANPA) said total decontrol of the newspaper business is essential "merely to correct the impact of crushing economic inequities."

The ANPA said the industry is caught in an economic bind because of the escalating price of newsprint imported from Canada, postal rate increases and exempt competitors.

"Newsprint shortages have impaired the effectiveness of newspapers in carrying out their First Amendment and public service responsibilities because these shortages have resulted in many cases in the rationing of advertising and news content," the ANPA said in its 19-page petition.

The council has already freed about 10 other industries from price controls.

Sterilization of retarded girl halted

CLAYTON, Mo. (AP) — A lawyer representing a mentally retarded 14-year-old girl has appealed to the Missouri Supreme Court for a reversal of a lower court ruling which authorizes the girl's sterilization.

"The court can not create a class for an operation of this sort without some standards being set down," said Allan F. Stewart of the Legal Aid Society of St. Louis.

Stewart, who mailed the appeal to the state high court Monday, said the order issued last week by Judge Robert G. J. Hoester of St. Louis County Circuit Court denied equal protection to the girl.

Hoester authorized the sterilization operation Friday at the request of the girl's divorced parents after doctors testified she lacked judgment and was constantly in danger of being assaulted and ravaged.

Judge Hoester stayed his order after Stewart filed a motion of appeal. It had been reported erroneously earlier that the supreme court had issued a restraining order barring the operation.

Testimony by doctors indicated the girl suffers from a genetic imbalance known as Trisomy-22, had an intelligence quotient of 50, has neuro-muscular motor disorders and is "overly friendly to other persons." The doctors testified that any baby born to the girl would probably be abnormal.

Stewart, who said he believes this is the first such case in Missouri, contended Judge Hoester's decree did not say it would be in the best interests of the state to prevent the girl from bearing children. He also argued that medical testimony indicated there was only a 50 per cent chance that the girl would give birth to an abnormal baby.

One man killed, another hurt

ST. LOUIS (AP)—One man was killed and another wounded Monday night during a fight outside a St. Louis tavern.

Francis Miller, 24, whose last known address was in St. Louis County, was shot in the head and died a few hours later at a hospital.

Joseph Moffett, 33, of St. Louis, was shot in the leg and hospitalized in serious condition.

Police said they arrested Ralph Williams, 29, of St. Louis, and charged him with murder and assault with intent to kill. Officers said the shooting incident occurred during a fight over a pool game.

Property rezoning turned down

In an unusual action Monday night, the City Council voted against the second reading of a rezoning ordinance, usually a mere formality, and at the same time some members of the council had some sharp words for City Counselor Robert Fritz and Mayor Jerry Jones.

The request for the rezoning of the property, located at the southwest corner of Ninth and Warren, was made by Wilmont Coulter, 1701 West Ninth, and Earl Thomas, 633 East Ninth.

The men are requesting the property be rezoned from R-1 (single family residential) to C-1 (local business). The Planning and Zoning Commission earlier granted the request and passed it on to the council for approval.

At its Nov. 19 meeting, the council voted 4-3 to authorize Fritz to draw up an ordinance rezoning the property.

At the same time, the council voted to have City Engineer Robert Cunningham conduct a survey to see if more than 10 per cent of the property owners within 185 feet of the property had signed a petition objecting to the rezoning.

If more than 10 per cent had signed the petition, it would take a three-fourths vote of the council, or six votes, to pass the ordinance, rather than the normal five votes, Fritz said.

Fritz said, however, that he discovered the zoning ordinance requires that petitions objecting to rezonings have each signature of the petition notarized by a notary public.

Since the petition in question was not notarized, Fritz said, he told Cunningham it would not be necessary to conduct the survey because the petition was not valid according to city ordinances.

"The petition is not valid, and the ordinance will require a simple majority," Fritz said.

James T. Buckley, attorney representing Coulter and Thomas, told the council he pointed out the requirement of notarized signatures to Fritz.

Councilman Carl Franklin and Bob Wells said it upset them that the matter was handled by Fritz without informing the council.

"I don't think the city counselor has the right to tell Mr. Cunningham to ignore a request by the council without the mayor's permission," Wells said.

"I agree with Bob, I don't appreciate the way it was handled," Franklin said.

Fritz apologized to the council, but explained that he thought he would save Cunningham's office wasted man hours, since the petition has no legal weight.

Wells also criticized Jones after the mayor said he knew of the situation.

"If you knew it on the 16th, you should have shown the council the common courtesy to explain the situation to us," Wells said.

"As far as I'm concerned, it wasn't any dark secret," Jones said.

Fritz said the council must defeat the present rezoning request if it wants to give the surrounding property owners a chance to circulate a legally binding petition, since the Planning and Zoning Commission has acted on the request. Fritz explained that the objecting notarized petition, must be submitted before the commission takes action.

At it stands now, the council can approve the rezoning ordinance with five votes, or a simple majority.

The second reading of the ordinance will be taken up at the next council meeting.

Buckley told the council he didn't think it was unfair to the objecting property owners to disallow their petition because the ordinance is available to anyone. He pointed out that in

Earth tremors in Tennessee

TIPTONVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — An earth tremor shook houses and rattled dishes Monday night in three northwest Tennessee counties, authorities said.

The tremor appeared to be centered in the area of Cooter, Mo., just across the Mississippi River from the Tennessee counties of Obion, Dyer and Lake.

A spokesman for the Obion County sheriff's office said the tremor was a "light shock that rattled windows and shook chairs around."

Residents estimated the tremor lasted up to 1½ minutes.

"It was like the house was lifting up and rocking all the way back, then coming over, rocking back and forth," said Patty Stone, who lives about eight miles south of Tiptonville.

"Everything was shaking. It was like thunder on the ground—it was that loud."

Diver and Florida officials in dispute

ISLAMORADA, Fla. (AP) — Diver Tom Gurr has disputed state officials who said they found in a canal behind his former home much of the $50,000 to $100,000 in Spanish treasure he claimed he threw back into the ocean.

"The stuff the state found is only about 10 or 15 per cent of what I pulled off the wreck," Gurr said in a telephone interview from his new home in Merritt Island.

He said he had dumped part of the treasure in the canal behind his former home here but had "absolutely forgotten about it."

Gurr was shown on a CBS television news program Friday dumping what he claimed was treasure he had taken over the past year from the Spanish galleon San Jose, sunk off Islamorada in 1733.

He said he was dumping the treasure because he could not get the state to divide it and give him his share. He was charged with grand larceny because under state law Florida was entitled to 25 per cent of the treasure Gurr claimed he consigned again to the sea.

State officials said they decided to search near Gurr's former home after failing to find anything near the wreck site.

"The reason the state didn't find anything near the wreck is because their divers aren't experienced enough to find it," said Gurr. "Those guys only spend a couple of hours a month in the water. But hell, I'd have to use special equipment to find it myself, and I put it there."

Gurr said Monday night the discovery of treasure in the canal led him to remember that there may be more salvaged Spanish treasure near the Islamorada marina where he docked his boat.

"I dumped some stuff there, too, over the years," he said. "All I did was move state property back on to state property. It's standard procedure for the state and for any salvage diver to dump recovered stuff back into salt water to store it."

Florida's marine archaeologist, W.A. "Sonny" Cokrell, said state divers had recovered pottery, jewelry and other artifacts from the canal behind Gurr's former home in Islamorada.

Cokrell and state divers had spent four days searching the wreck site of the San Jose for items Gurr said he dumped there.

"We were pretty sure that he hadn't dumped anything of value," Cokrell added. "We don't know exactly how much is in the canal, but there's a lot down there. It's pretty murky and we have to work by feel a lot, so I figure it will take us two days to bring all of it out."

Gurr, who has been diving on the San Jose for five years to salvage the treasure the galleon was carrying when it went down, moved from his rented house here last week, taking his family about 250 miles north to Merritt Island.

Plastic products are problem for hospitals

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

The Buffalo, N.Y., General Hospital can't get the clear plastic cups it uses to measure out medication and has had to switch to opaque ones.

Brackenridge Hospital in Austin, Tex., reports its supply of cotton goods is "almost nil."

And Bryan Memorial Hospital of Lincoln, Neb., said it has been experiencing "shortages of all kinds of things that come in plastic containers."

The problems stem from the energy crisis. Industry sources and public officials have warned that some drugs and medical supplies might be in short supply, especially plastics, medicines and other items made from petrochemicals. Petrochemicals are by-products of oil and natural gas.

An Associated Press survey showed that some hospitals around the country were experiencing difficulties in obtaining certain items, especially those made of plastic. Some reported they might have to switch back to glass for such things as syringes. No hospital reported stockpiling goods against future shortages.

Earl Jones, director of purchasing for the Buffalo hospital, said the shortages have forced substitution and innovation. When the hospital couldn't get a particular device used for administering anesthesia, it switched to a new kind of implement "that called for all kinds of changes in technique," Jones said.

Will Brown, the administrator of Brackenridge, said deliveries on a number of items have been delayed. "We have back orders for sheets that go back months," he said.

Bryan Memorial spokesman Jim Gember said: "Our hospital is finding that there has not been a shortage of drugs, but that the containers that the drugs come in are hard to get. We have been experiencing shortages of all kinds of things that come in plastic containers."

A spokesman for Mount Sinai Medical Center in Milwaukee, Wis., said there was a shortage of low-grade plastic items such as specimen bags but drug supplies would remain stable.

"The trend we've been able to see is those areas where there's a good profit to be realized will be the areas where the resources are centered. And they are in the drugs and high grade plastic materials," he said.

W.B. Marshall of the Grand Rapids, Mich., Hospital Council said the four major hospitals in the area were definitely stockpiling scarce articles, especially tubing.

The four institutions joined together in stocking up on canned food, paper and heating oil.

The American Hospital Association said a survey it made showed there was "not a whole lot of stockpiling going on." The supply situation varied, however, from hospital to hospital, even in the same city.

Several hospitals indicated they might revive old equipment.

Ervin says five tapes might satisfy committee

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin says the Senate Watergate Committee might be able to drop its pursuit of other White House documents and tapes if President Nixon would surrender five tapes of conversations with former aide John W. Dean III.

"If the White House is willing to surrender any tapes, I would suggest they surrender these five tapes," the North Carolina Democrat who heads the Watergate panel told newsmen at his home here Monday.

Ervin commented after the Western White House refused on Monday to openly embrace Vice President Gerald R. Ford's suggestion of a possible compromise in the newest Watergate subpoena deadlock.

A presidential spokesman did, however, indicate that President Nixon would consider a compromise if Ervin's committee sharply scaled down its demand for masses of White House documents.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said President Nixon's position "as it exists today is stated" in his letter last Friday rejecting the committee's subpoenas.

"The only comment I would make," said Ervin, "is that since this last July we have been trying to obtain from the White House five tapes."

Earlier Monday, Ervin said he would welcome a compromise on the subpoenaed White House material, but would want any agreement in writing. "So there could be no misunderstanding."

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Do all smokers inhale?

DEAR DR. LAMB — Some of my cigarette-smoking friends, in defense of their habit, insist they do not inhale when they smoke. I cannot understand how anyone puffing on a cigarette does not inhale the smoke. To inhale means to breathe in, whether it be cigarette smoke or fresh air. If a person, while smoking does not inhale, he must be holding his breath for the duration of that cigarette and this is, of course, preposterous. Please explain.

DEAR READER — Usually they are rationalizing, a very human trait.

Obviously anyone who smokes does inhale, and that applies to pipes and cigars. Smoke comes into the mouth because one creates a vacuum to draw it in by breathing it. It's that simple. What they really mean is they inhale a shallow breath so that the smoke is not drawn deep into the lungs, and they think only into the mouth. With shallow breath in and then blowing it out, they claim they are not inhaling. It is really a question of how deeply they inhale.

It appears to be true that the deeper you inhale, the more problems you can have. However, just having smoke in the mouth will result in absorbing nicotine. I believe about a fourth as much nicotine is absorbed from smoke in the mouth as you get from smoke in the lungs. That can still be quite a bit. I suspect that most of these so-called non-inhalers are really getting some smoke into their lungs. While it may not be as harmful as deep inhalation, it is still harmful — and I might add just as disagreeable to the person who does not smoke and is sensitive to tobacco.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could

you explain what takes place after the gall bladder and gall stones are removed? What takes the place of the function of the gall bladder? I asked my surgeon, his answer was so highly technical that I just couldn't understand him.

DEAR READER — The gall bladder is just a storage reservoir. Bile is formed by the liver. It drains into numerous small collecting tubes and finally into one large tube called the bile duct. The tube drains directly into the small intestine, not far from the outlet of the stomach.

Along the bile duct there is a tube attached to its side, and this tube leads to the gall bladder. It is analogous to a river for the bile duct and a branch off the river backing up into a lake. The lake is analogous to the gall bladder. If you control the flow of bile down the main duct, it will back up into the gall bladder, just as water would back up into the lake if you slowed down the water in the river.

At time intervals, or when stimulated by fatty foods, the gall bladder contracts and expels the bile into the main duct or main stream into the intestine.

After the gall bladder is removed, the bile just flows at a more continuous rate into the intestine. You lose some efficiency of the action of bile this way but usually not enough to make a great deal of difference.

No funds available for ball park repair effort

Although the lack of a quorum effectively disallowed any official action, four members of the Sedalia Parks and Recreation Board discussed current activities and also dealt with a matching funds request by a Little League representative.

Home Triplett, 2503 Southwest Blvd., budget chairman for the Little League Board, brought a plan before the board to obtain $2,500 worth of state matching funds for repairs and construction on Little League baseball diamonds at Centennial Park as well as for other parks facilities.

Triplett said the Little League would put up $1,250 if the city would put up the same. Triplett said he understood those funds would then be matched by state money. It was learned, however, that the city would be unable to spend half of the $5,000 total on other projects under the rules of such a state grant as Triplett thought. Jim Grady, board chairman, explained rules governing such grants would call for expenditure of the total amount on the Little League facilities.

Grady said that if the city agreed to spend $1,250 on Little League it might possibly bring on similar requests from all the organizations that use park facilities.

Triplett told The Democrat-Capital following the meeting that the Little League would make repairs at ball diamonds with the funds it had available despite the unsuccessful effort to obtain help from the city and state.

The Parks and Recreation

Department is doing its part about the energy crisis, it was learned. Non-essential lights are not being turned on and thermostats have been dialed down where possible, resulting in an approximate 15 per cent energy savings.

The hoped-for use of Liberty Park swimming pool as an ice skating location has not been realized, Recreation Director Roscoe Righter revealed. "The people who have used it, like it," he commented. Righter said the pool affords a superior surface to the one at the park lagoon and is partially wind-protected by the sides of the pool. He added that it is well-lighted and supervised. The pool is open to the public between 4 and 9 p.m. on weekdays, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Saturday and from 1 to 9 p.m. Sunday. Lights at the lagoon are being kept on until 9:30 p.m. daily, according to Jack Coutts, parks director.

The board will be unable to send any representative to two educational seminars this month because no official action could be taken at the meeting. The seminars are being conducted this month on the energy crisis in Illinois and on financial management in Nevada.

Preliminary discussion was held on the possibility of purchasing or leasing a copying machine for the Parks and Recreation Department offices. Righter explained that currently, any time copies are needed the department secretary is forced to drive to the Municipal Building to use the copier. That procedure, he said, wastes time and forces either him or Coutts to be in the office.

The state Department of Community Affairs has sent survey forms to 250 Sedalians requesting information about recreational facility desires, it was learned. The list of recipients was written up by Coutts and Righter. The survey asked about the desirability of some 60 items, such as an amphitheater, ice skating rink, public golf course, bicycle riding areas and an archery range.

The per-capita consumption of beef in Canada is 90 pounds a year.

DEATH NOTICES

Lawrence Hoopengartner

KANSAS CITY — Lawrence Hoopengartner, 67, died at St. Mary's Hospital here Monday morning. He had been ill for the past 15 months.

He was born at Raton, New Mexico, Oct. 7, 1906, son of the late John Hoopengartner and Effie Logan Hoopengartner. He married Miss Marcella Bohon at Sedalia, May 20, 1929.

Mr. Hoopengartner had been employed in Kansas City at the Missouri-Pacific Shops for 40 years when he retired in 1972.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marcella Hoopengartner; one daughter, Mrs. Jack (Rosalie) Huffman, San Jose, Calif.; two sons, Thomas Hoopengartner and Donald Hoopengartner, both of Kansas City; his mother, Mrs. Effie Pfiltzner, Los Alamos, Calif.; one step-sister, Mrs. Maude Friedbach, 1604 South Osage, Sedalia; four grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Funeral services will be held at the Ewing Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Wednesday. The Rev. Orval F. Woolery will officiate.

Pallbearers will be Maurice E. Kelley, Norris Byrd, Roy Denny, Earl Perkins, Jerry Smith and Park Denny.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

The body is at the funeral home where the family will receive friends from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Original method

is used to douse

fire in automobile

It was an unusual night for the Pettis County Fire Department, and a routine fire call they answered turned out to be anything but routine.

Firemen received a call at 9:21 p.m. Monday from south New York, outside the city limits, that a car belonging to Daisy Morris, Route 2, was on fire.

When they arrived, firemen found that an electrical malfunction had started the fire. They had things fairly well under control when the pump on the fire truck blinked out because of a problem in the gear mechanism. The firemen then picked up snow and used that to douse what was left of the fire.

The car, however, was declared a total loss. Its value was set at $1,200.

Now, and probably for the next two days or so, the county is operating with a 1,000 gallon tank loaned to it by the LaMonte Volunteer Fire Department. The county's truck is at the Ozark Fire Extinguishing Service in Springfield to have the pump over-hauled. It was not known how much this would cost.

Board, asked the council as a whole what the board should do now.

"Where should we go from here?" Fischer asked.

Franklin, Knox, Garrison, Wells and Bales all said the board should not conduct more interviews, but should remain active.

Mayor Jerry Jones requested that the board meet with him soon to discuss future activities.

After the meeting, Broadus said, "I was disappointed, naturally. I thought possibly Mr. Bales would vote for it."

Broadus said he was not satisfied with the explanations Bales, Knox and Wells gave for changing their votes.

"Evidently, they didn't understand the vote," Broadus said, referring to the original vote taken to allow interviewing of candidates.

"The board tried to make it clear before starting the interviews that it didn't want to waste the peoples' time. We have some very disappointed members of the board," Broadus added.

Alta Elizabeth Heppard

VERSAILLES — Alta Elizabeth Heppard, 93, died Saturday at her home here.

She was born Aug. 8, 1880, daughter of Walter Emery and Marinda Webster.

On Sept. 21, 1902 she married Edgar O. Heppard in Morgan County. He preceded her in death.

Survivors include two sons, Coleman Heppard, St. Joseph; and Wray Heppard, Stover; one daughter, Mrs. Hazel Finley, Eldon; eleven grandchildren; and twenty two great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Scrivner Chapel here with the Rev. Melvin Burnett officiating.

Burial will be in the Versailles Cemetery.

Friends may call after 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Scrivner Chapel.

Open bids for new Community Center in city

Three bids were opened by the City Council Monday night for work on the Sedalia Community Center, with the Dean Construction Co. offering the apparent low bid of $131,580 for the work.

The other bids came from Borchers and Heimsoth Construction Co., Cole Camp, $138,888; and a Columbia firm that bid $143,890.

The Community Center will be located in the old St. Patrick's elementary school building, and the work includes the construction of a multi-purpose gymnasium that will be joined to the existing building. The new gym will be to the north of the present structure.

The center's complex, besides the school building and new gym, also involves a building formerly used for a convent.

The latter has about 2,000 square feet of usable space, it was reported. The school itself is scheduled for extensive remodeling to accommodate various programs and organizations to be located there. The building is 52-by-96 feet, has a full basement, kitchen facilities, a ground floor with four classrooms and a second floor with a large auditorium and several smaller rooms.

The new gym will be about 94-by-72 feet and will include shower and dressing facilities. Two thirds of the entire project cost, or $172,147, will come from federal funds.

Civil actions highlight day in court here

Two civil suits were filed Monday in Pettis County Circuit Court while another was dismissed by Judge Frank Meyer.

A $50,000 suit was filed by Delores Holden Cox, Decatur, Ill., against the Oakwood Oil Co. in Sedalia and Glen Lee Young, Ottumwa.

The suit stems from the Sept. 29, 1972, death of Lynn Adele Holden, daughter of Mrs. Cox, as a result of alleged injuries the girl received in an accident on Sept. 27, 1972.

The petition contends that Miss Holden was injured in a two-vehicle collision on Highway 50, about three miles east of Ottumwa, when an Oakwood Oil Co. truck driven by Young collided with a car driven by Mrs. Cox. The petition says that Miss Holden was a passenger in the car driven by her mother.

In the second suit, a petition for an alleged breach of contract was filed against Maxine Griggs, owner of Maxine's Gourmet Restaurant.

The suit, filed by Barbara L. Fitzsimmons, for the band "Barbara Belltone and the Soft Touch," alleges that the band entered into a contract with Maxine's to perform for six nights at Maxine's for $900.

According to the petition, the band was ready to honor the contract, but Maxine's hired another band and refused to allow the Soft Touch to perform.

In addition to the $900, the plaintiff is asking for $500 for attorney's fees, claiming a clause in the contract called for a "reasonable" attorney's fee to be paid if the contract was broken.

In the third suit, Judge Meyer dismissed the case after an out-of-court settlement was reached between the plaintiffs, Leo and Ila Reaves, and the defendant, Woodrow Craighead Jr.

The Reaves had sought $50,000 from Craighead in connection with the Sept. 24, 1972, death of their daughter, Debbie Berkenbile, 15.

The petition alleged that Miss Berkenbile was a passenger in a car driven by Craighead when the car collided with a Continental Trailways Bus on Highway 50, 1.8 miles east of Route 7.

Sandra Craighead, 18, another passenger in the car, was also killed in the accident.

✓ Randall defended the House's record, stating that the Senate had failed to act on several measures passed by the lower chamber. Earlier a woman had asked him if Congress could "hurry up . . . you are so slow."

Contracts approved by city councilmen

The City Council Monday night approved two contracts, one with Burns and McDonald to prepare a report on the city landfill, which must be submitted to the State Department of Health before the department will issue and operating permit for the facility.

The engineering firm estimated the report will cost $15,000 to prepare, including aerial mapping and geological evaluations.

City Engineer Robert Cunningham told the council that every city in the state is going to be required to prepare detailed reports and surveys on their landfills to obtain the operating permits.

The council also approved a contract with Sammons and Buller as consulting architects on construction of a hanger building and a terminal building at the Sedalia Memorial Airport.

The Airport Board awarded the contract to Sammons and Buller, subject to the approval of Fritz and the City Council. Fritz recommended awarding the contract.

Mayor Jerry Jones reminded the council that the taxi assistance program operated by the city is due to expire Feb. 1. He suggested to the council that if it renews the program, it do so for four months, or the remainder of this fiscal year.

Jones reported to the council that the program was operated at a cost of $3,538.18 for the two months ending Jan. 1, while it cost $4,529.63 the two months before that.

"Thus far, there has been a very small reduction in the number of rides," Jones said.

He said the reduced rate the city is paying is responsible for the reduced cost. The council took no action on the program.

In other action, the council passed two rezoning requests earlier approved by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

One was a request by the Central

OATS will hold meeting Thursday

The Older Adults Transportation System (OATS) Pettis County committee will hold a special meeting at 1 p.m. Thursday in the City Council Chambers in the Municipal Building, committee chairman Carl Franklin announced Tuesday.

The group will meet, Franklin said, to decide how to spend $268 in contributions it has received recently from the council and councilman Bob Wells.

The council donated $300, with Wells contributing $15. However, Franklin said, 15 per cent of the total $315, or $47, was sent to the central OATS office in Columbia.

Among the suggestions to be discussed by the group, Franklin said, are the possibilities of purchasing memberships for senior citizens who cannot afford them, or purchasing gift $5 "trip books" for distribution to selected OATS members.

Franklin indicated that the meeting is open to all OATS committee members or interested persons. OATS buses will be available to transport persons to and from the meeting at a reduced price, he said.

Jones

Establishing the city sales tax, Jones said, was a major reason for the city's current favorable financial status. Another factor, Jones said, "was the advent of federal revenue sharing which enhanced our position even more."

Jones also itemized several of his 1970 campaign pledges which, he said, "have been successfully followed through."

"I pledged to help beautify the city by starting a strong effort to remove dilapidated buildings," he said. "Since then, 62 such structures have been demolished."

The increased enforcement of city health and sanitation statutes is another area he feels has been successfully undertaken, Jones indicated.

"Granted, there are several store owners who probably think we're being too strict. But the laws are there to be enforced for the betterment and safety of all. That's what we're trying to do in enforcing them," he said.

The employment of a fulltime city recreation director in September, Jones said, reflected the fulfillment of another personal pledge to expand local recreational programs.

Jones indicated he was particularly pleased with his efforts to reduce the local property tax levy. Since he took office, Jones pointed out, the local tax has been reduced 67 cents from $2.32 to $1.65.

Finally, Jones said, he believed the city has been successful in cooperating with state and federal agencies regarding air and environmental standards.

"We've received over $3.5 million in matching federal and state funds over the past four years," Jones said. "This means we have been successful because we would never have gotten the matching funds if we had not met their compliance standards."

Commenting briefly on his relationship with the city council during his term, Jones said the mayor-council relations "were about as good as we could ever hope them to be," during the first three years.

Despite the absence of continuous harmony during the past year, Jones he said he nevertheless felt the council has carried on well. "We certainly have not stalled," he said.

Distributing Co., 2501 West Main, to rezone a 70-by-100-foot lot located on West Main in the Rainbow subdivision. The property was rezoned from R-1 (single family residential) to M-1 (light industrial), reportedly to allow the firm to make future expansion.

The council also approved the rezoning of the northwest corner of State Fair Blvd. and 16th from R-1 (residential) to R-3 (apartment district). The request was made by C. D. Hieronymus, who earlier told the commission he plans to use the land to build condominiums.

The council opened several bids for equipment and work.

Only one bid was received for a portable asphalt patching mixer for the street department. G. W. Van Keppel Co., Kansas City, submitted a bid of $7,792.

Two bids were received for a dump truck for the street department. The low bid was from Howard Truck and Equipment Co. for $6,217.80.

One bid was received from Wolf Construction Co. on curb and gutter work. The bid was for $4,220.95.

All bids were submitted to the Streets and Alleys Committee for selection of the best bids.

In personnel matters, two resignations were accepted, one from the police department and one from the fire department. Glenn Baker resigned from the police force, while Clyde Roark quit the fire department.

Larry Newbill and Mike Ditzfeld were hired as firemen, and Robert Harold was promoted to driver in the fire department.

Jones told the council he received a letter from the Highway Department telling him a traffic survey will be conducted soon to determine if a traffic signal is needed at State Fair and Broadway, as recommended by the city. The traffic count will be conducted for an eight-hour period.

SFCC Union break-in suspect held

Billy Wayne Denton, 19, Route 2, was arrested by Sedalia police about 2:30 p.m. Monday in connection with a break-in at the State Fair Community College student union. The incident occurred between Dec. 28 and Jan. 2.

Police Chief William Miller said Tuesday morning that Denton was arrested after police followed up a number of leads that were obtained by local officers.

Denton was arrested at the Cue Room, 604 South Ohio, by Det. Sgt. Perry Franklin and Officer John DeJarnette and held for investigation of breaking and entering.

A cigarette machine and juke box were broken into during the burglary with cigarettes and an undetermined amount of change being taken. Also taken was change from a cash register, a number of stereo tapes and shirts from the union bookstore.

Miller said a part of the merchandise taken, including cigarettes and some tapes, had been recovered.

Evidence in the case was turned over to Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming Monday afternoon. Denton remained in the city jail as of early Tuesday morning. Charges had not yet been filed.

In other police news, Fred Rank, 1812 South Kentucky, reported to police Monday that a portable TV, valued at $50, a clock worth $22, and a blanket were stolen at 506 South Summit.

Rank told police that he was living at that address, and that the owner of the apartment moved his belongings into the hall. When he went to pick up the property Sunday, the items were missing, according to Rank.

John Dillen, 80, Route 3, reported the theft of his 1963 Chevrolet from the Pat O'Connor used car lot, 712 West Main, between 4 and 4:30 p.m. Monday. According to police, the car was unlocked and the keys were in the ignition at the time of the theft.

Supervisor for appraisal firm arrives in city

Mark Speaker, the supervisor of the professional appraising crew that will reappraise Pettis County, put in his first appearance at the county courthouse Tuesday.

Speaker, an employee of the Continental Appraisal Co. of Buffalo, N.Y., arrived in Sedalia late Monday accompanied by Albert Little, another Continental employee.

Little said Tuesday that the first task of the reappraisal company will be to set up the company's office on the second floor of the courthouse. Tom Valentine, Continental president, had indicated in previous visits to Sedalia that the actual appraising will begin "in spring."

Continental was awarded a $144,500 contract by the county court last summer to re-evaluate for tax purposes every parcel of property in the county.

Little said one of the company's first tasks will be to obtain maps for the project. Speaker and Little visited the city engineer's office Tuesday to discuss the possibility of using existing city maps in their project.

Speaker was not available for comment Tuesday morning. Little said Speaker was looking for personal housing in the city. He is expected to remain in Pettis County until the project is completed.

Little said the reappraisal company now has a mailing address in Sedalia. It is Post Office box number 877.

Court rules man who slept with dogs not married

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A man who sleeps with his dogs to keep warm cannot be considered married even though he lives in a house with another woman, according to a ruling by the Missouri Court of Appeals at St. Louis.

The court awarded $58,000 in back pay to Ella Schanz of Danby, Mo. from the estate of the late Weaver S. Terry. Miss Schanz lived on Terry's farm and worked for him from 1940 to 1969, when he died without leaving a will.

A judge had ruled that Miss Schanz was not entitled to be paid as an employee because the two had lived together and were believed by many persons to be married.

However, the appeals court overturned the decision in a ruling last week, saying no family relationship had been established.

Judge George F. Gunn Jr., who wrote the opinion, said "Witnesses who spent the night on occasion on the Terry farm, noted that Ella and Weaver had their beds in separate rooms; that Weaver slept with a dog or two, and when it got cold he would throw on a couple of more dogs."

"There were some five-dog nights in the bitterness of Danby winters," Gunn commented.

Forged check case brings plea of guilty

Michael D. DeLapp, 23, 306 East 26th, pleaded guilty in Pettis County Circuit Court Tuesday to a charge of passing a forged check.

In other court action Monday, the criminal docket for the next term of Circuit Court was set.

DeLapp is charged with passing a forged check of $135 to Bing's No. 2 Supermarket, Broadway and Emmet, March 28. He allegedly forged the signature of Thomas G. Cave on the check.

Circuit Court Judge Frank Meyer postponed sentencing until Feb. 4 pending a pre-sentence investigation by the State Department of Parole and Probation.

At the Monday docket setting, 10 persons pleaded not guilty to felony criminal charges. Six of the cases were set for trial. The other four were passed to the April term of Circuit Court.

The following cases were set for the April term. All defendants are charged with selling marijuana:

Reggie Jones, 18, 2117 East Broadway; Eddie Lee Powers, 20, 1629 East Fifth; Malcolm Curd, 19, 117 East Cooper; and Kenneth Mitchell, 25, 515 North Washington.

The other cases were set for trial as follows: Marion Schlobohm, 21, Las Vegas, Nev., charged with sale of cocaine, March 26; Christine Van Dyne, 17, 421 South Lamine, charged with sale of marijuana, March 18; Donald Roypp, 18, Independence, Kan., charged with second degree burglary and stealing, Feb. 26; Tony Powers, 21, and Clyde E. Powers, 24, 5 Burton Drive, both charged with assault with intent to do bodily harm, March 28; and Daniel Allen, 21, 700 West Sixth, issuing an insufficient funds check for more than $100, Feb. 22.

Missouri taxpayers urged to file early

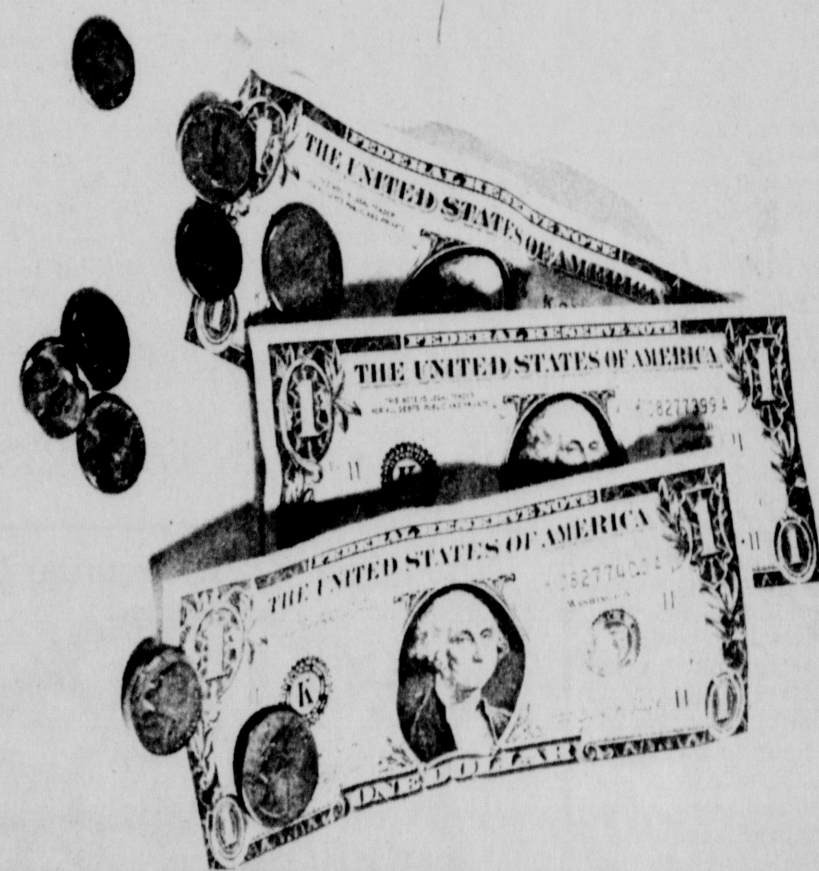

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Internal Revenue Service officials are urging Missouri taxpayers to file tax returns early to speed refunds.

A.W. McCanliss, IRS district director, said the agency is preparing to issue about 60 million refunds, including about 1,350,000 in Missouri.

Taxpayers who file returns in January can usually expect their refunds in four to five weeks, McCanliss said. Refunds for late filers take from six to eight weeks, he said.

One reason for the delay is that work piles up at the service center in Kansas City where returns are processed, McCanliss explained.

BPW surveys

'Women in Politics'

Sedalia Business and Professional Women's Club, on request from the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, Inc., conducted a local survey concerning "Women in Politics."

Of 700 forms sent to major service clubs in the city, only 59 senators and representatives. Whether they would vote for a woman president was tied, 28-28, with three undecided.

Most of the respondents could see no marked difference between men and women in public office performance. A majority of the respondents also felt there were no qualities

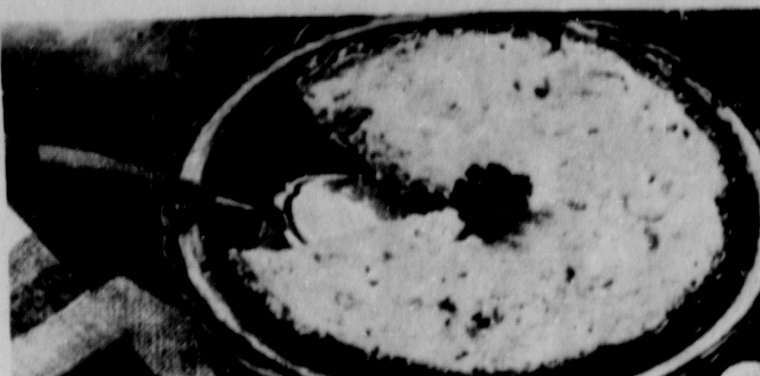

Economical main dish tastes delicious

By CECILY BROWNSTONE

For a meatless supper an Onion Cheese Pie served with a crisp salad makes an excellent main course. For ending this meal, choose a hearty dessert. Or, if you like, you can serve soup as a first course and put fruit at the end of the menu.

The onion used in the pie is the Spanish variety that comes in large round size and has a crackly-thin golden-bronze skin.

ONION CHEESE PIE

Cheese-flavor crackers
1/2 cup butter or margarine
Large Spanish onion
2 eggs
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon white pepper
1/2 teaspoon dried crushed Italian herb seasoning
3/4 cup coarsely grated sharp cheddar cheese
Finely crush enough of the crackers to make 1 3/4 cups crumbs. Melt 6 tablespoons of the butter and mix with the crumbs; press over bottom and sides of a 9-inch pie plate. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven for 5 minutes. Cool.

Onion cheese pie

Peel onion; cut in half lengthwise; slice thin; separate slices into half-rings — there should be 3 cups.

In a 10-inch skillet melt the remaining 2 tablespoons butter. Add onion and cook gently, stirring often, until soft and transparent; onion should look yellowed but not brown. Spread onion over bottom of pie shell.

In a small saucepan beat eggs slightly; add milk, salt, pepper and Italian seasoning and beat just enough to combine. Add cheese. Stir constantly over low heat until cheese melts — do not boil. Pour over onion.

Bake in a preheated 450-degree oven for 10 minutes. Reduce heat to 350 degrees and bake until filling is set — 15 to 20 minutes longer.

Makes 6 main-dish servings.

For Women

were returned. Although "somewhat disappointed" in the number of returns, Mrs. Nyra Price, state program chairman, said the information gathered was "favorable" to BPW.

The 59 total survey forms were returned by 13 males and 46 females. All had voted in the last national election. Most of the respondents were 26 to 50 years old.

A majority of the respondents said they would vote for a woman city councilman, mayor, governor, state senators and representatives and national generally identified with women that would keep them from doing a good job in office.

Almost 90 per cent of those answering the questionnaire would not object to having a woman as a Supreme Court Justice.

Over 83 per cent said sex of a candidate would have no part in their voting decisions.

In spite of the favorable information concerning women in politics gained by BPW from this survey, a majority of the respondents failed to believe a woman president or woman Supreme Court Justice would be elected in the next 25 years.

Ann Landers

Homosexuals— 'sick' or not?

Dear Ann Landers: I trust you read the page one story in your parent paper, the Chicago Sun-Times, stating that homosexuality is now "off the sick list."

The American Psychiatric Association announced that homosexuality has been removed from the lexicon of diseases. A spokesman for the Gay Movement heralded the announcement as "an instant cure."

The American Psychiatric Association also asked federal, state and local governments to end all forms of discrimination against homosexuals.

Gay Task Force leader Dr. Frank G. Kameny said he hoped the action of the American Psychiatric Association would be taken to heart by Ann Landers because "she is one of the country's most influential opinion-molders and her impact on American thinking is enormous."

How about it, Ann Landers? Are you big enough to reverse yourself and give the gay population a clean bill of health? — Waiting To Hear

Dear Waiting: I did, indeed, read that the American Psychiatric Association had voted to remove homosexuality from the "sick list." I also read the following statement, which perhaps you missed. It was issued as the APA's official position by the board of Trustees. Here it is:

"For a mental condition to be considered a psychiatric disorder, it should either regularly cause emotional distress or regularly be associated with generalized impairment of social functioning. Homosexuality does not meet these criteria. This is not to say that homosexuality is "normal" or that it is as desirable as heterosexuality."

In the past I have said homosexuals are sick, in the sense that homosexuality is a dysfunction, a form of aberrant behavior. My opinion has not changed. When the APA says homosexuality is "not normal" they are saying, in a different way, what I have been saying all along. But labels can be dangerously misleading, and herein lies part of the problem.

I am 18 years ahead of the American Psychiatric Association in appealing to federal, state and local governments to stop discriminating against homosexuals.

Illinois was the first state in the union to pass legislation declaring homosexuality between consenting adults no longer a crime. To quote Dr. Frank G. Kameny, "one of the country's most influential opinion-makers" had something to do with this giant step toward human understanding. I am currently battling to have all questions relating to sexual behavior removed from employment applications. I am also fighting to protect homosexuals from job dismissal or demotion.

And now about the "sick" label. In my opinion, the heterosexual who is at war with himself, abuses others, engages in orgies, excessive drinking or drug abuse is sicker than the homosexual who is at peace with himself and is a productive member of society.

P.S. In May 1972, I received the Robert T. Morse Award for "outstanding contribution to the public's understanding of psychiatry." I consider this one of my most meaningful citations. It was presented to me by the American Psychiatric Association.

Polly's pointers

Airport noise bugs phoner

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I go along with most of the Pet Peeves in the column and have some more of my own. My really big Pet Peeve is with the placement of telephone booths at airports, etc. The noise makes it so hard to understand the person you are trying to talk to. I am not hard of hearing but wonder how people with a hearing problem ever manage. It seems the phones could be placed in quieter spots. — SISTER V.W.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with county road maps with the names of the roads in such fine print one can scarcely read them. I have heard many complaints about this and such a map is often impossible to use when in the car. Please make them readable and usable. — M.B.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is a way for mothers of young children to have fun and save money and time, too, when going on a shopping spree. When I have a day of shopping and errands to do I fix a lunch of sandwiches, a thermos of milk or juice, some fruit or whatever I have on hand. This takes only a few minutes. At lunchtime we stop at a park, or even a parking lot in bad weather, and eat our lunch. If in a park the kids get out of the car and run off some of their energy. They like this and it is a rest for me, too. After our break back to shopping we go.

I always take a damp washcloth in a plastic bag to use for cleaning sticky hands and faces. In fact I do this any time we are going out and there is a possibility of anything being eaten. — THERESE.

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I would appreciate it if some reader would tell me how to keep my suede coat collar from becoming black from oil on the neck and hair. Is there some powder I could use to keep it clean? Thank you. — JACQUELINE.

Brown anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Brown, 2512 West 32nd, observed their 50th wedding anniversary Jan. 5.

They were honored with a reception Jan. 6 given by their children, Mrs. W. R. Smith, Lee's Summit; John E. Brown, Walnut Hills; and Mrs. Martha Deck, 1914 South Sneed, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown were married Jan. 5, 1924, in Ottumwa at the home of Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs. Fannie Edwards, by the Rev. W. B. McGraw. Their attendants were Jess Brown and Mrs. A.I. (Georgia) Walz.

"GOLDEN YEARS"

SHOULD BE YOUR BEST

SOMETIMES THEY'RE NOT

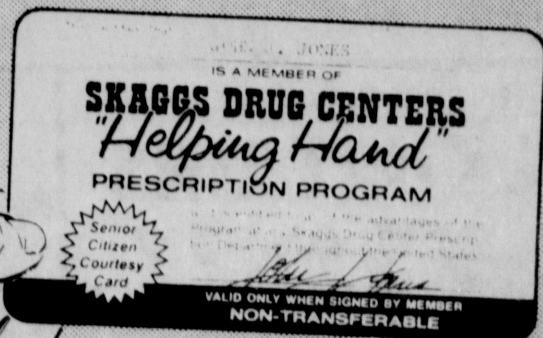

Because of rising prices on all things, and because those of retirement age frequently require more medication prescribed by their physician, many Senior Citizens are unable to enjoy their "Golden Years" to the fullest simply because income no longer can keep up with the expense of living. In an effort to relieve this problem to some degree, at least, Skaggs Drug Centers have developed the following plan:

THE SENIOR CITIZEN (men and women at age 62)

"HELPING HAND" PRESCRIPTION PROGRAM

TO PARTICIPATE IN THE PROGRAM,
IT IS ONLY NECESSARY THAT YOU:

- 1 Visit the pharmacy of your nearest Skaggs Drug Center and present authentication of your age, which can be:
 - a. a letter from the State indicating old age assistance;
 - b. a letter from the regional Social Security office stating that the bearer is receiving Social Security; or, presentation of your actual Social Security check;
 - c. presentation of your birth certificate, or copy;
 - d. presentation of your life insurance policy;
 - e. and, if requested, presentation of other collateral identification, which would show your birth date.
- 2 One of the Skaggs professional pharmacists will be glad to fully explain the advantages of the "Helping Hand" Prescription Program; and, if desired, he will assist you in filling out the brief application form. There is no membership fee and no dues to pay. There is no obligation on your part, whatever.
- 3 Within a week, you will receive your "Helping Hand" Courtesy Card for use when needed. When you have your prescription filled at any Skaggs Drug Center, presentation of your Courtesy Card will entitle you to the benefits of the Skaggs "Helping Hand" Senior Citizens Prescription Program.

Women hostages are freed

JUNCTION CITY, Ohio (AP) — The ordeal was over and Helen Binkley cried. She said they were the first tears since she and two other women were held hostage for nearly six hours by two convicts who threatened to kill their captives unless they were provided a car for an escape. Highway patrolmen freed the three women Monday evening by breaking into a barricaded office at the Junction City Treatment Facility and shooting the two convicts. One was killed and the other critically wounded. The facility, located in the hills of southeastern Ohio about 50 miles from Columbus, holds some 100 felons being treated for personality disturbances. Mrs. Binkley, 55, said her captors were upset over a court ruling extending their sentences. "They said they just couldn't take another 38 months," she said. Convict Michael Woods, 22, was shot twice in the abdomen and died at a hospital in nearby Lancaster about an hour after the women were freed. Bernard Barbiaux, 32, was in critical condition with head and arm wounds. Mrs. Binkley said the two convicts entered the center's records room about 1:30 p.m. and "came at us with knives and threatened us if we didn't cooperate. Then they barricaded the door. "Later, after everything had calmed down, they clearly stated they didn't want to hurt us." Taken hostage with Mrs.

Binkley were Debbie Carney, 18, and Vicki Clouse, 24. All are employees of the record room. While state patrolmen surrounded the area, the convicts threatened to kill the women unless they were given an unmarked car and allowed to leave the facility by 7 p.m. About 10 minutes after the deadline, troopers stormed the office. Dr. Kenneth Gaver, director of the Ohio Department of Mental Health and Retardation, said he gave the order for troopers to enter the office and fire. A spokesman for the department said the patrolmen fired three shots after the convicts, armed with homemade knives, came at the troopers.

Litton has sold his ranch

WASHINGTON (AP) — The sale of Litton Charolais Ranch near Chillicothe, Mo., was announced Monday by Rep. Jerry Litton, D-Mo. Litton, to avoid possible question of conflict of interest, said he was putting most of the money from the sale of the famous 500-acre ranch into a blind trust. The ranch sold for $3.8 million and was purchased by Gerald Schoenfelder of Scottsdale and Douglas, Ariz. Started in the 1950s with $20,000 of borrowed money, the ranch became one of the best known purebred livestock spreads in the nation. "It was a tough decision," Litton said. "We hated to sell." Originally, Litton and his father, Charley, raised Herefords but in 1952, they converted to a Charolais cattle operation. Before the Littons stopped competing, their herd won more than 1,000 blue ribbons. Schoenfelder is owner of Rainbow's End Ranch at Douglas which has more than 2,000 Charolais cattle mostly of Litton breeding. "I think my parents, who have been running the ranch since I came to Washington and have worked hard all their lives deserve a chance to enjoy some of the fruit of their efforts," said Litton, who was elected to Congress in 1972. Litton said he was convinced he should sell the ranch after events surrounding the Watergate affair. "While I think it is good for congressmen to be in business for themselves in order to keep abreast of day-to-day business and people problems," Litton said, "at this point in history, I think it is most important that people have confidence in their government and those who govern. "With the sale of my business, the people of my district know that their interest is my only interest." Another lawyer is added

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans on the House Judiciary Committee say the appointment of a prominent lawyer of their choice as chief minority counsel will mean a professional, nonpartisan impeachment investigation.

Albert E. Jenner, 66, a Chicago trial lawyer was added Monday to the growing staff that is gathering material to help the Judiciary Committee decide whether President Nixon should be impeached.

John Doar, a former Justice Department official and, like Jenner, a Republican, heads the staff that now numbers 42 and may reach 50.

Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., chairman of the Judiciary Committee, praised Jenner as a "highly respected member of the bar" and said he was among those Rodino considered for the chief counsel's position.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., the senior committee Republican who selected Jenner, said he and other lawyers named by the Republicans would work together with the rest of the staff.

Jenner was a member of the presidential commission that studied the causes of violence in 1968 and served as senior counsel to the commission that investigated the assassination of John F. Kennedy. He is chairman of an advisory committee to the Supreme Court on Federal rules of evidence and serves on numerous American Bar Association committees.

Jenner's appointment and a briefing by Doar on the status of the investigation stilled criticism by Republicans that the impeachment proceedings were being handled in a partisan manner.

"I don't think the cards are going to be stacked one way or the other," said Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill. "I think the committee is going to act objectively."

Rep. Thomas E. Railsback, R-Ill., said that the addition of Jenner to the staff "means we are going to have a very professional investigation and that will be good for the committee and good for the country."

Railsback also said, however, that Republicans will insist on sharing with Rodino any power to issue subpoenas for witnesses or documents.

"Whether Rodino will share that power with Hutchinson could be the key to Republican support for the proceedings," Railsback told newsmen.

Catholics are upset by movie

ROME (AP) — "Blasphemy! Blasphemy!" shouted conservative young Catholics as Italy's First Lady and other leading Romans arrived for the premiere of the movie version of "Jesus Christ Superstar."

The police barred one girl from the benefit showing Monday night because her handbag was full of tomatoes.

The Teatro dell'Opera was searched after anonymous telephone callers said bombs had been hidden in it. No explosives were found.

Scores of the Catholic youths demonstrated inside and outside the theater. Police rounded up about 20 of them, questioned them and let them go.

The Committee for Defense of Christian Civilization called the film of the Broadway rock musical "an outrage to Catholcism and Christianity... and a blasphemy to the person of the Divine Redeemer."

But the wife of President Giovanni Leone, the critics and even priests among the first nighters praised the movie.

It "does not diminish the message of Christian love," said Mrs. Leone.

Film critic Gian Luigi Rondi, a former director of the Venice Film Festival, said in an often-interrupted speech before the showing that the film, though modern, is still sacred.

The Vatican has not opposed the movie, and some songs from the stage production were played on the Vatican Radio in the past. A preview was shown on the state television network Monday night.

But stiff opposition is expected from some Catholic groups in addition to the Committee for the Defense of Christian Civilization. There may be legal action that could keep the movie off the screen for months.

Anybody can file a complaint with charging that the movie offends religion. The picture would then be banned until cleared, a lengthy process.

Flying commercial with the First Family

WASHINGTON — Almost everyone in Washington has been greatly impressed with President Nixon's sacrifice in flying commercial to San Clemente, Calif., for the holidays. In taking a United Air Lines flight, the White House pointed out, the President was setting an example for saving fuel and also showing his faith in the commercial aviation industry.

Buchwald

Suppose, for example, the President gets a call at San Clemente from Henry Kissinger in Washington, D.C.

"Mr. President, I think you better get back right away. The Russians are up to something in the Middle East, and it could mean very serious consequences for the Free World as we know it."

The President shouts to his wife: "Pat, we have to get back to Washington right away! Tell Tricia and the Secret Service to pack immediately. We're leaving in a half-hour."

Mr. Nixon dials the airline. He gets a recording.

"Due to the energy crisis," the voice says, "all of our reservation clerks are tied up. Your call has been put into a computer and as soon as one of them is free, we will connect you."

"Please do not hang up as this will be the last voice you hear until someone is free to serve you."

The President holds for 45 minutes. Finally he gives up and says to the family, "Come on, we'll go to the airport and get our reservations there."

The party of 20 jumps into the limousines and drives to the Los Angeles airport. "You get the luggage," the President yells to Pat. "I'll get the tickets."

Mr. Nixon gets into a long line. He waits 20 minutes and finally gets up to the counter. Just as he's about to say something, the reservation clerk puts up a sign: "Next Counter Please."

The President says, "Look I've got to get to Washington, D.C."

The clerk who is counting his cash says, "I don't care if you're the President of the United States. This counter is closed."

"But I am the President of the United States."

"You are? Could I have your autograph?"

"Yes," the President says, signing his name. "Now can I have tickets to Washington, D.C.?"

"I'm sorry," the clerk replies. "I'm going to lunch."

The President gets in the next line. Pat comes up and says, "You should have gotten in THIS line in the first place."

The President, trying to hold his temper, says, "Pat, I don't need you to tell me which line I should have gotten into. Now shut up."

Pat, in tears, says, "You never talked to me that way when we flew on Air Force One."

A half-hour later the President is at the counter. "I would like 20 first-class seats to Washington, D.C., on Flight 151."

The reservation clerk goes to the computer and starts hitting the keys. "We don't have 20 first-class seats. We can put three in first class, 12 in tourist and the rest will have to be standby."

"All right, but hurry," the President urges. "The plane is leaving in five minutes."

"Is this family plan?" the reservation clerk asks.

"Three on family plan, the Secret Service men will fly tourist."

How old are they?"

"What do you mean how old are they?"

"If they're under 21 and have student cards, they can fly for 25 per cent off."

"For heaven's sakes, please, I don't want to miss the plane. A generation of peace depends on me getting on this flight."

"Yes, sir. I'll have to write up these tickets."

"Look, just take this money and write them up later."

"I'm sorry, sir. That would be highly irregular. You do have time, you know."

"What do you mean I have time?"

"Flight 151 has been canceled. The next flight will leave at 9 o'clock tonight with a change of equipment in Waco, Texas."

A conservative view

A word from our Nannie

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — The Consumer Product Safety Commission is like a row of one-armed bandits in a Reno casino. I cannot leave it alone. There is some awful, obscene fascination in watching the little wheels go around: so much time, money, and energy expended in such idiot pursuits!

Kilpatrick

A press release is at hand: "CPSC Issues Safety Tips on Winter Sports." You will think I am making this up. I swear I am not. This is what the Consumer Product Safety Commission has to say about skiing:

"Skiing. Investigations of skiing accidents show that injuries occurred when bindings did not release and when the skier was going too fast, lost control, or hit a mogul. A number of accidents happened when the skier was tired."

"Commission recommendations to skiers include: (1) Take lessons from an expert. Studies show that beginners are hurt more frequently, so advancement is desirable..."

One reads on and on, as in a dream. Skiers should "use good quality equipment that fits well." Skaters should "never skate close to open bodies of water." Sladders should be careful: "Numerous accidents occur when sladders hit bumps." There are six pages of this.

Time rolls backward. One sees the United States Congress, in all its majesty, passing an act to create the CPSC. One sees the President, exercising his awesome powers, signing the bill into law. One envisions the commission gathering in conference: note pads, agendas, file folders, lights softly gleaming on a polished table, a silver pitcher. Studies show that beginning skiers are hurt more frequently than experienced skiers. The chair will entertain a motion that the commission recommend that beginners "take lessons from an expert." Is there any discussion?

Another press release is at hand. This one has to do with cribs. The commission has launched a nationwide crib safety campaign to inform consumers about what they can do to make old cribs safer: "As the child grows taller, lower the level of the mattress."

Still another release drifts across the desk. This is a thick catalogue of toys. There are banned toys. There are more than 1,300 of them. The list begins with Classification 0513, Art Supplies and Equipment, and runs through Classification 1515, Pacifiers and Teething Rings.

Classification 1350 deals with "Squeeze-Squeaker Toys." Is there orthographic authority for "squeaker"? My dictionaries give none. It is perhaps a word of art. But a squeaker toy plainly is a toy possessed of a squeaker, and if the "squeaker removes," the toy must be banned. Farewell to "Kooky Eyes," distributed by Azrak-Hamway International Inc., of New York; Farewell to Goggle Eye, Tottie Frootie, Little Angel, Yellow Bear, Pluto, and Talkie Tiger! All of their squeakers remove.

Under Classification 1303, Mechanical Dolls and Toy Animals, Keywind and Battery Operated, the commission is protecting us from 65 listed perils, among them Bloopy Dog, Hopping Bunny, Bingo Clown, and Quak-Quak the Duck, all of which have sharp edges or small parts. The Globe Wholesale Company of Chicago is here put sternly on notice: Its battery-operated "Cheerful Dachshund No. 256" has been condemned. This dangerous object has "sharp points (nose)."

What is the proper function of government? One would suppose, where the police power is concerned, that a proper function of government is to protect the citizen against fraud, mislabeling, and serious danger. But this function ought to be severely limited. Government was not meant to be the One Great Nannie of Us All to hold our hands, blow our noses, and tie down our little mittens. At some point responsibility has to be personal. At some point parents, children, ice skaters and skiers have to learn for themselves that life is filled with sharp edges, thin ice, and bumps in the snow.

Kohoutek the dud

Kohoutek, which was supposed to have been the "comet of the century," has turned out an astronomical fizzle.

Astronomers are extremely disappointed at Kohoutek's showing to date. By now it should be one of the brightest objects in the evening sky, but instead appears only as luminous as an average star — when it can be seen. Even the Skylab astronauts have had a hard time spotting Kohoutek lately.

Scientists speculate that a sticky, cement-like substance may have formed on Kohoutek as it passed near the sun, keeping the gaseous dust tail — the most characteristic mark of a comet — from forming.

Which all goes to show that it's hard to find anything to believe in nowadays. Maybe Kohoutek's advance men were the same ones who did PR for the Edsel.

Then again, has anyone looked into the possibility that Kohoutek was an Administration hoax from the beginning, thought up to divert Americans from Watergate?

Death at the Wall

East Berlin border guards have killed another person trying to flee to safety in West Berlin. This time it was one of their own guards, who was attempting to pass Checkpoint Charlie with an East German officer as hostage.

The soldier was shot Saturday while trying to duck under one of the last barriers that make up the infamous Berlin Wall at that point.

He joins a long list of East Germans who have been killed in the dozen years since the wall was erected. Today the wall includes a formidable array of sophisticated devices — automatically-controlled machine guns, trip wires, sirens, land mines, dogs, spotlights, stationary obstacles — that make escape a much more lethal risk than before.

But the wall does serve one useful purpose to the West: Its existence is the most damning indictment that could be drawn up of life under a Communist dictatorship.

"LET ME GO OVER IT ONCE MORE — SPEEDOMETER AT 55 AND THERMOSTAT AT 68..."

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The latest racket, stimulated by the cutback in airline flights, is a black market in tickets.

Government documents, intended for official eyes only, describe a "massive marketing of stolen and counterfeit tickets." Organized crime has been named as "the major distributor," although "hundreds of entrepreneurs" operate on "a small but lucrative scale."

Two government agencies, the FBI, a federal grand jury, the police of at least three states and two congressmen are moving quietly to break the flourishing black market. Here are the backstage developments:

✓Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., in a private letter to House commerce chairman Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., has reported that the traffic in stolen and counterfeit tickets is costing the airlines "several millions of dollars.... three million stolen tickets having gone through Los Angeles International Airport alone." Murphy asked for "immediate hearings" on his bill to curb the illegal tickets.

✓The federal grand jury investigation, according to an internal report, "involves approximately 7,000 stolen tickets from four agencies and airlines in the New York metropolitan area." Already, 175 people have appeared before the grand jury and "arrests are scheduled for the latter part of January 1974."

✓William Halligan, the Federal Aviation Administration's security chief at New York's vast Kennedy Airport, has reported confidentially: "I have learned that there has been communication between the police in the states of New York, Florida and Nevada, and sometimes next month, they hope to blow this (ticket scandal) wide open...."

Merry-go-round

Airline tickets sell on black market

✓The Civil Aeronautics Board has warned that a black market in legitimate tickets can also be expected. In a private letter to Congress, Chairman Robert Timm has cautioned: "We envision the very real possibility of some ticket agents buying up blocs of seats well in advance of flight dates and then reselling these seats to the public at inflated prices. Because of the scarcity of transportation, the public could well prove willing to pay these scalpers' prices."

The CAB wants authority from Congress to crack down. The necessary legislation has already been introduced by Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich.

Most airline tickets disappear in shipment. FAA documents say the tickets are printed by Rand McNally and are shipped around the country by truck. "Theft from these shipments is the main supply to the criminals," states one memo.

The "second largest loss," according to the memo, occurs within the travel agencies "through careless management." A "popular criminal activity" is to "purchase a travel agency, sell all the tickets available, make no payments to the airlines and close the door of the agency." This is known in the trade as a "Bust Out Operation."

Another memo reports that the ticket bootleggers range "from a husband and wife team who formerly worked for a New York airline to a maitre d' pushing tickets in a prominent New York restaurant. They don't advertise, but by word of mouth their clientele covers every walk of life. One recent case involved an elderly grandmother, her grandson (and) a nephew who could get it for her wholesale."

The basic problem, states an internal report, "is the lack of central control for all airline tickets." The airlines are also required to honor the bootleg tickets. Complaints to the police, at least in the past, have produced negligible results. Explains the report: "The police are hampered by local courts who consider an individual in possession of a ticket as a petty offender."

WATERGATE MERRY-GO-ROUND: While the world waits for the Senate Watergate Committee to reveal more evidence of high-level skulduggery, the committee staff apparently has unlimited time to pursue low-level nonsense.

In November, the staff spent two weeks probing the source of what some of the staff members considered unflattering remarks about themselves which appeared in Rolling Stone, the pop weekly. As a result, Scott Armstrong, a committee investigator, was suspended without pay for a month.

Now, Wayne Bishop, a former Connecticut State Police inspector, has been assigned to find who on the staff has been making unauthorized long-distance telephone calls.

In the first day, according to staff members, Bishop discovered the sources of about $40 worth of calls and the miscreants were forced to pay up. There is some doubt, however, about the cost-effectiveness of the campaign, since Bishop is paid $26,500 a year.

Today's thought

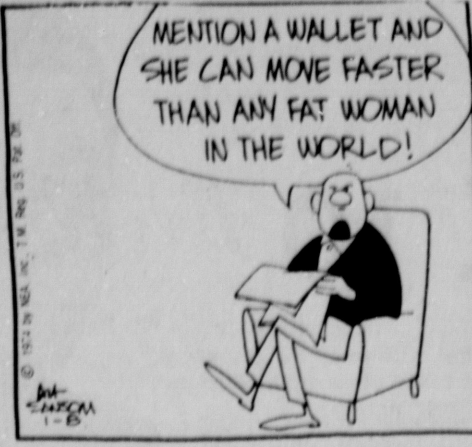

"And in the last days it shall be, God declares, that I will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams." — Acts 2:17.

In the first days of contract, players used to overcall on bad suits and low level doubles would produce great big penalties. By the 40s these sucker overcalls had practically disappeared and some time in the early 50s Alvin Roth, one of the great innovators of bridge history, invented what he called the negative double.

Today's hand shows this negative double in operation. North can't raise clubs and is not close to being strong enough to bid one of the red suits at the two level.

Thirty years ago he would pass or bid one notrump. If he passed and East bid two spades, West would play there and probably go one trick down. If he bid one notrump and East still raised spades, South would bid either three clubs or two notrump. Neither contract would make and East-West would show a profit.

The negative double of one spade would tell South that North held four hearts and some cards. South would bid three hearts; we show North raising to four although some North players would pass.

Four hearts isn't a great contract, but it does make some North-South pairs would make game. Others would make a nice part score. Either way the takeout double would be worth while.

Walton injured in UCLA win

Vanderbilt chalks up No. 10

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

It's tough to play winning basketball when you're looking back wards but Vanderbilt turned the trick Monday night.

The Commodores, ranked sixth nationally, held off stubborn Mississippi State 75-69 for their 10th victory in as many outings. But they're hearts weren't in it.

"We were fortunate to win," admitted Coach Roy Skinner. "We shot poorly and were out-rebounded too. I don't think we were tired. It was just a matter of being so high last week and we had a great win against Alabama Saturday in the last second. It's hard to concentrate on someone else so quickly."

Vanderbilt, off to its best start since the 1963-64 season, beat Alabama in a 73-72 thriller. The game took its toll on the Commodores.

"It's tough to get up emotionally for two games like that in a row," said Sophomore guard Butch Feher. Feher pulled the fat out of the fire against Mississippi State by sinking six straight free throws with less than three minutes to play.

In other games involving the top twenty teams, No. 1 UCLA rolled to its 85th straight triumph, a 55-45 decision over Washington State. No. 10 Providence dumped Villanova 87-77. No. 12 Alabama held off Tennessee 79-73, and No. 17 Southern California defeated Washington 90-76.

Mississippi State outshot Vanderbilt from the field by a comfortable margin but the Commodores owned the foul line, sinking 29 of 32 free throws to just five of nine for the losers.

The Bruins lost All-American center Bill Walton midway through the second half with a back injury but managed to hold off the Cougars anyway. UCLA blew it open with a 12-1 streak early in the second half and Keith Wilkes led the balanced attack with 13 points. It was UCLA's 45th straight Pac-8 Conference win, tying a record it set from 1966-69.

Walton, injured in a collision under the basket, left the game under his own steam and did not appear seriously injured.

Kevin Stacom collected 23 points and Bob Cooper added 18 for Providence, and Marvin Barnes pulled down 16 rebounds. The Friars out-rebounded Villanova 43-23 but kept the game close by turning the ball over 30 times.

Alabama, down by eight points at the intermission, out-scored Tennessee 14-5 in the first five minutes of the second half to go on top for good. Rick Brown, T.R. Dunn and Charles Cleveland had 17 points apiece for the winners.

Gus Williams and Clint Chapman netted 22 points each in Southern Cal's win over Washington. The Trojans hit 70 per cent of their shots from the field in the second half.

NEW YORK (AP) — Record-shattering O.J. Simpson was a unanimous choice and Miami's dazzling twin safeties, Dick Anderson and Jake Scott, headed six Dolphins named to the National Football League All-Pro team by The Associated Press today.

Wide receiver Paul Warfield, running back Larry Csonka, guard Larry Little and place-kicker Garo Yepremian were the other Miami players selected to the 23-man squad by a panel of sports writers and broadcasters covering the 26 NFL teams.

Buffalo's Simpson, the NFL's Offensive Player of the Year, who set a rushing record with 2,003 yards for the season, was named on every ballot cast in the poll. And the Bills' offensive line, a key part of Simpson's success, was represented by O.J.'s roommate, guard Reggie McKenzie.

Joining McKenzie on the offensive line were Little, San Francisco center Forest Blue and tackles Ron Yary of Minnesota and Rayfield Wright of Dallas, all repeaters from last year's All-Pro team.

Warfield caught 11 touchdown passes during the season and Csonka churned out 1,003 yards rushing. Yepremian produced 113 points for the Dolphins including 25 of 37 attempted field goals.

The only rookie selected to the squad was tight end

Charles Young of Philadelphia, who finished with 55 catches in his first pro season. John Hadl, who led Los Angeles to a 12-2 record, best in the club's history and threw 22 touchdown passes, was named the quarter-back.

Minnesota, which will oppose

Miami in Sunday's Super Bowl, had two players besides Yary named to the squad, both on the defensive line. They were tackle Alan Page and defensive end Carl Eller.

The other side of the defensive line was manned by Atlanta end Claude Humphrey and tackle Mean Joe Greene of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

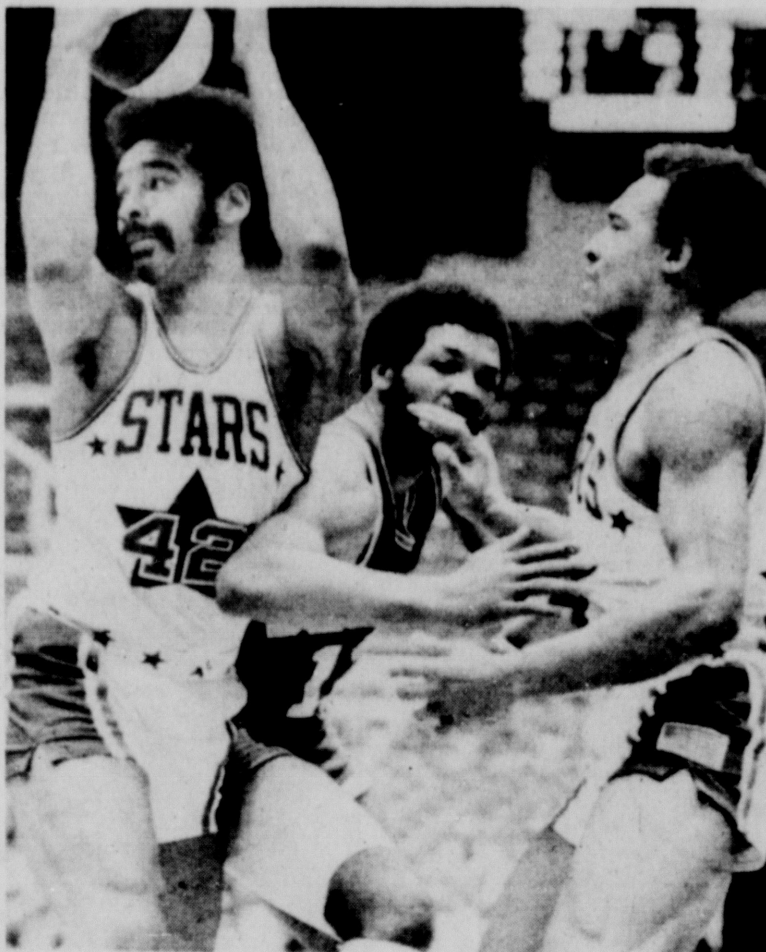

Isiah Robertson of Los Angeles and Washington's Chris Hanburger were selected as the team's outside linebackers with Willie Lanier of Kansas City manning the middle.

Completing the team in the defensive secondary with safeties Anderson, who led the league with eight interceptions, and Scott, were cornerbacks Robert James of Buffalo and Willie Brown of Oakland.

On defense, Humphrey, Greene, Hanburger and Anderson, the NFL's Defensive Player of the Year, were repeaters from last year's team.

The NFL's two conferences were just about evenly represented on the All-Pro squad with 12 players coming from AFC teams and 11 from the NFC. That was a change from last year when 15 of the 23 players chosen came from the AFC.

The voters also selected conference teams. In the NFC, Dallas and Minnesota placed four players each, while in the AFC, eight Miami players were chosen.

Wash. State coach takes Colorado job

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jim Sweeney, football coach at Washington State University for the past seven years, has been hired for the same job at the University of Colorado. The Associated Press learned Monday night.

Sweeney, 44, succeeds Eddie Crowder, who resigned as coach last month to devote full time to his duties as Colorado's director of athletics.

Sweeney has a record of 21-42 at Washington State but is highly regarded as a pioneer of the Veer offense.

Sweeney took the Cougars to a 5-6 season last year, winning his last four games after starting out with a schedule that included opponents like Kansas, Arizona State, Ohio State and Southern Cal. The Cougars were 7-4 the year before.

Sweeney's name had been mentioned along with the names of Arizona State Coach Frank Kush and Miami of Ohio Coach Bill Mallory as possible replacements for Crowder, who has refused to comment on negotiations for a new coach. All three coaches were known to have talked to Crowder about the job.

However, both Kush and Mallory said over the weekend they had decided to stay at their respective schools.

Sweeney came to Washington State in 1968 from Montana State where he had a 31-20 record and three Big Sky Conference championships.

Crowder has been coach at Colorado since 1963. He had been on Bud Wilkinson's coaching staff at Oklahoma. In his decade as coach of Buffalos, Crowder compiled a 66-33-2 record. Colorado was 5-6 in the Big Eight last year.

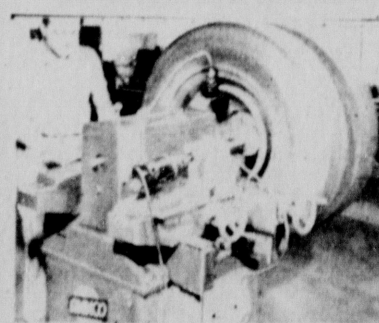

Both Crowder and Sweeney were in San Francisco for the annual convention of the American Football Coaches Association, which begins Tuesday.

Sooners, OSU win

Iowa St. routs Iowa to run record to 9-3

KANSAS CITY (AP) — More and more it appears the Iowa State Cyclones are no flash in the pan this Big Eight Conference basketball season.

The Cyclones, who went to the finals of the Big Eight pre-season tournament before losing, ran their record to 9-3 Monday night by routing big rival Iowa 94-77.

Oklahoma and Oklahoma State also scored victories, the Sooners tripping Texas 80-76 and State trouncing Baylor 70-51. Nebraska lost to Wichita State of the Missouri Valley Conference 66-58.

All Big Eight teams are idle Tuesday.

Iowa State had a 47-37 lead at the intermission after cashing in on 23 of 28 free throws during the first half. Hercle Ivy and Wes Harris combined for 44 points in the game, played before a school record crowd of 14,800.

After Iowa pulled up to 76-70 in the second half, Harris and Ivy cut loose for five points. The Cyclones shot 59 per cent from the floor. In all, the Cyclones hit for 36 of 46 free tosses.

The Sooners, also 9-3, beat the Longhorns in the final minute. Mike McCurdy stole the ball and made a driving layup with 57 seconds to go to break a 76-76 deadlock.

Five Sooners hit in double figures with Tom Holland getting 16 points and Alvan Adams 15. Texas, behind 41-33 at the half, moved out front several times late in the contest.

Oklahoma State held Baylor to 16 points in the second half. The Cowboys, 6-6, were held to a 35-35 tie at halftime, and Baylor was behind only two points with nine minutes remaining.

After that, the Cowboys out-scored the Bears 21-4 with K. C. Kincaide getting most of his 16 points during that spell. Kevin Fitzgerald of the Cowboys led all scorers with 19 points, and teammate Andy Hopson topped the rebounders with 15.

Nebraska, 7-5, fell behind Wichita State by 15 points at one stage of the second half. The tight zone defense employed by the Shockers held Nebraska to two free throws during a seven-minute period.

During that time, the Shockers grabbed a 48-33 lead. The Huskers rallied with nine straight points but it was too late. Jerry Fort's 16 points were high for Nebraska.

Over-the-Hill Gang runs mark to 23-2

WARSAW — The Hamm's Beer Over-the-Hill Gang of Sedalia ran up its 23rd basketball victory of the season here Monday night defeating Warsaw in independent basketball action, 140-110.

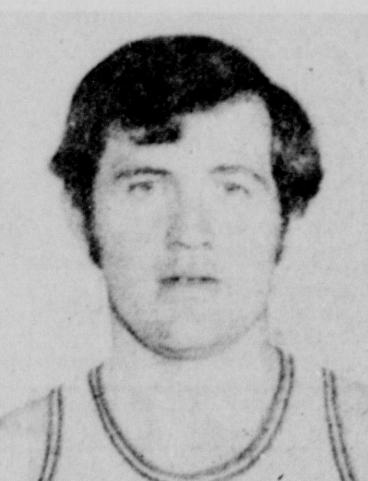

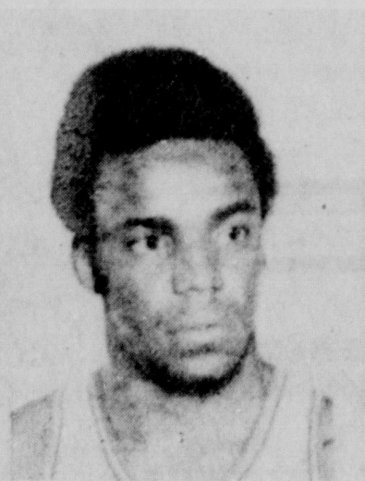

Earl Gerke and Mike Wharton combined for 72 of the victor's total with 42 and 30-point performances respectively.

The Over-the-Hill Gang stands at 23-2 for the season.

Haywood and Chicago guard Norm Van Lier were named to finish up the West team. Thurmond will be making his seventh appearance. Bing his fifth. Haywood his third and Van Lier his first.

Named earlier to the East team by sportswriters and broadcasters from the NBA cities were forwards John Havlicek of Boston, Elvin Hayes of Capital and Lou Hudson of Atlanta; guards Pete Maravich of Atlanta, Walt Frazier of New York and Jo Jo White of Boston; and centers Dave Cowens of Boston and Bob McAdoo of Buffalo.

Named to the West squad were forwards Rick Barry of Golden State, Chet Walker of Chicago and Sidney Wicks of Portland; guards Geoff Petrie of Portland, Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles and Charlie Scott of Phoenix, who replaced the injured Jerry West of Los Angeles; and centers Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of Milwaukee and Bob Lanier of Detroit.

Sweet Springs visits Gremlins

With all but three Kaysinger Conference schools involved in the Stover Invitational Basketball Tournament this week, a light, non-conference slate is on tap.

Two games were originally scheduled for tonight, however, one was cancelled sometime ago, leaving only Sweet Springs at Sedalia Sacred Heart as the lone, non-tournament game on tonight's schedule.

Other non-tournament games this week find Fatima (Westphalia) at LaMonte, Thursday; Warsaw at Versailles, Friday; and Precious Blood of Liberty, Mo. at Sacred Heart, Saturday.

The Gremlins haven't seen action since losing to Green Ridge on Dec. 14. Sacred Heart was scheduled at Northwest last week, but inclement weather forced postponement of that contest. Sacred Heart is 3-7 overall, in Kaysinger play, the Grems are seeking their first victory.

Although Sacred Heart has been getting balanced scoring from its starters, the Gremlins simply haven't been getting enough of it. As a team, Sacred Heart has averaged 56.4 points per game, however, the Grems have yielded an average of 65.9 points defensively.

Tony Lock continues to lead the team in scoring with an 11.1 average. Jim McMullin follows at 10.6. They are followed by Rick Weller (9.2), Randy Johnson (8.5) and Mark Register (8.2). Sweet Springs brings into the game a 6-5 record. The Greyhounds nearly won the Brunswick Tournament, but were pushed aside by the host team in the finals, 61-58.

Another near-victory for Coach Larry Hieronymus' club was a one-point setback to Slater.

John Sunners, 6-4 center, is the team's leading scorer with a 21.2 average. He's followed by 5-9 guard Tony Bredenhoeft, who's hitting at an 11.2 clip.

Rounding out the Greyhounds starting lineup will probably be Rick Arnold, Kim Heerman and Harlan Reid.

Vandy jumps four spots in cage poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Vanderbilt, off to its best start since the 1963-64 season, has jumped from No. 10 to No. 6 in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll.

The Commodores, with nine wins in as many outings, collected 489 total points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. Vandy only played once last week but made it worthwhile with a 73-72 decision over highly-regarded Alabama.

UCLA retained its customary spot at the top of the poll, collecting all 48 first-place votes and 960 total points. The Bruins thumped Washington 100-48 to run their season's mark to 9-0 and their record winning streak to 84 games.

Notre Dame, which has two games with UCLA later this month, barely held onto the No. 2 spot over Maryland, 798 points to 789. The Irish, 7-0, took the week off while Maryland, 7-1, beat Richmond and Clemson handily.

North Carolina State and North Carolina changed places. State, 7-1, took over the No. 4

Marquette, 10-1, dropped from sixth to seventh after a two-point loss to South Carolina. New Mexico, 12-0 after victories over Utah and Brigham Young, vaulted from No. 12 to No. 8.

Long Beach State, which earlier this week was placed on probation for three years by the NCAA for recruiting violations, raised its record to 10-1 with a triumph over Los Angeles State and held the No. 9 position.

Providence, 9-2, was up four places to 10th after a lopsided victory over Catholic University.

Louisville moved up two places to No. 11. Alabama fell from No. 7 to No. 12, and Indiana, down from eighth, and Wisconsin, up from 17th, tied for the No. 13 spot. South Carolina, among the also-rans last week, moved up to No. 15.

Rounding out the top twenty in order were Nevada-Las Vegas, Southern California, Michigan, Memphis State and Hawaii.

Vikings' make-shift dressing room

A taciturn Bud Grant, head coach of the Minnesota Vikings, was hot under the collar Monday about the "shabby"

Vikings' training facilities for the Super Bowl and put the blame squarely on Commissioner Pete Rozelle. (UPI)

Grant upset with poor training site, facilities

HOUSTON (AP) — Bud Grant caustically let the National Football League know what it could do to improve the environment of Super Bowl week ... if not for the Minnesota Vikings, then for future championship teams.

The Viking coach, without a show of anger, directly blamed the NFL for the facilities which his players are using this week to practice for Sunday's game against the Miami Dolphins at Rice Stadium.

"This is shabby treatment," Grant said flatly upon inspecting the locker-room at Delmar Public School. "This is not a pickup game a bunch of kids will be playing. This is the Super Bowl."

No clothes hooks, no locker cubicles, inadequate space, no tackling dummies and no blocking sleds were Grant's biggest gripes. Then he noted the Dolphins were working out across town at the headquarters of the Houston Oilers — where they enjoy the use of a full complement of pro football paraphernalia.

"At times the league is too busy patting itself on the back for its public relations and forgets about the teams," said Grant. "We're not going to throw a fit about it. It's not our responsibility. I only get angry on situations I can control, and I have no control over this."

"The league has had a whole year to get ready. I'm not putting the blame on any one person. But it certainly is a big advantage for Miami. They can walk to practice, have a team meeting and go directly to the field."

"We have to hold our meetings at the motel and then take a 20-minute bus ride. It's distracting."

Grant noted that when the Vikings played in the 1970 Super Bowl against Kansas City in New Orleans, his team used facilities of the New Orleans Saints. Kansas City, the 23-7 victor, trained at Tulane University.

Grant was puzzled the Vikings were not assigned to work at a university in the Houston area.

The Vikings said they would remain at Delmar, at least on a day-to-day basis.

Jim Kensil, aide to NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, indicated the use of Rice Stadium and Houston University was impractical because of security reasons.

Crews would be working at Rice, getting the stadium ready for Sunday's game, and school is in session at Houston. The Vikings, therefore, would not have been practicing in a secluded area, Kensil said.

No mention was made of Texas Southern University.

Stover Invitational

Smithton, Green Ridge move into semifinals

By BOB SHACKELFORD
Staff Sports Writer

STOVER — Results were as predicted in the seedings Monday night at the opening round of the Stover Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Top-seeded Smithton overcame a sluggish first 11 minutes and blasted Northwest 63-36. Green Ridge, the fourth-seeded team, put on an impressive performance in downing host Stover, 66-49.

Smithton in gaining its 10th win of the year without a loss, ran into early problems against an out-manned, but scrappy Northwest team. The Mustangs, winless in 10 outings, held the tourney favorites to a 14-10 lead, after one quarter of play, and managed a tie at 18-all with 5:21 left in the second period.

The surge was short-lived, however, as sharp-shooting Rusty Templemire on the inside, and Eric Hopper from the wing sparked the unbeaten Tigers to a 33-20 halftime margin.

The third quarter was played nearly even, mainly due to junior wingman Gene Anderson, who accounted for all nine of the victors' points in the stanza; the Mustangs could only post five on the scoreboard in the period.

The final quarter saw the balanced attack of the Tigers' machine roll over their first-round foe as Hopper and Marvin Turner led the onslaught.

The Tigers will now meet the vastly-improved Green Ridge squad in Thursday night's semifinal game at 8:30 p.m.

Northwest dropped to the losers' bracket and will meet Stover at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Anderson led all scoring with 21 points, while Alan Meyer had 19 for Northwest.

In the second game of the evening, Green Ridge broke from a 15-14 margin to overcome the host Bulldogs. With guard Kent Scotten hitting from the outside, and 6-6 John Dove and 6-4 Mike Profit getting easy tip-ins, the Tigers rolled to a 36-24 halftime lead, and increased the margin to as many as 19 points in the third quarter.

Only in the final period did Stover mount an effective drive, but by then it was too late.

Highlight of the contest was the effective defense put on Stover's two top scorers — Ron Hodges and Terry Newgaard. Hodges, who was averaging more than 17 points per game, was held to 10. Newgaard could find the range for only six points.

Kelly Harding, the Tigers' stylish guard, led the scoring with 19 points; Scotten followed closely with 18. Hodges was joined in double figures by David Marriott, who also had 10.

Tonight's action finds No. 2 Tuscumbia going against Lincoln in the 7 p.m. opener; No. 3 Cole Camp takes on Otterville in the 8:30 p.m. game.

Scoring

Smithton (63) — Anderson 21, Templemire 13, Hopper 11, Turner 10, Teter 4, White 2, Bramer 2.

Broadway actress happy in both of her homes

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "I've always had this feeling that you needn't worry about the future, because something will always come along to take your place."

Multiple Achiever

Actress Frances Sternhagen is at present giving a characteristically impressive demonstration of her versatility. The 43-year-old mother of six, she commutes daily from a suburban home to appear on Broadway in Neil Simon's latest play, "The Good Doctor." And in the play she enacts an assortment of roles with her usual ability to command instant attention. She's not interested in stardom, citing enough responsibilities at home. "All I really want is to be able to work in good material with good people."

self, that I realized if I wanted to do any of this I better get it out of my system."

She went off to graduate work at Catholic University, got her first important professional work with Washington's Arena Stage. One of her fellow students in college was Carlin, and when she was 26 they got married.

"He was a very exciting young juvenile," the wife says, "but when you get to be about 35, people don't know just how to cast someone like that." For the past seven years he has been a speech teacher at Pace College here "but he may get back into acting."

The Carlins didn't lag about parenthood. "You see, we're Catholics," says the lady who converted to that faith.

"But I must say I don't regret any of it now. I think having those children has made all the difference in my feelings about theater."

Although she's done some films and appeared in many television shows, "the stage is my home always—maybe it's that authority people talk about me having. It's that live audience."

"I get pleasure out of doing the same play every night. It's like a ritual. I go to Mass every day, and in a funny way, saying things over and over, they have a fresh meaning every time. A really good play can be fresh, too, doing the same things."

The oldest Carlin-Sternhagen offspring is now 17, the youngest 7, and several have showed some inkling of theatrical aspiration.

"I don't encourage it, and I don't have time to tell agents or anything like that. When they get good and ready, they can do it on their own if they want, that's fine. It's healthier that way—they can make their own mistakes."

Besides that article of faith about things always working out, Miss Sternhagen says "life has taught me one other thing—you can't do too much."

"You have to organize yourself to what you can do. So if you find yourself doing too much, something has got to go. Then you have to decide what's the most important."

"I'll tell you what. My house is a mess. I've never been known as a good housekeeper. At the same time, my husband's not very neat either." Quite clearly, sweet disorder is one path to domestic bliss.

February 4, 1974, or bids may be submitted to the City Clerk between 7:30 p.m. and 8:00 p.m. at the City Council Meeting on the above date and will be publicly opened and read aloud at the regular City Council Meeting for

Contract 13—Kentucky Avenue Sewer
The Contract provides for the construction of a new sanitary sewer extending from M.H. No. 11 to Contract 10-C. Section II to a point approximately 1310 feet north of 32nd Street on Kentucky Avenue. Included is the construction of approximately 1,450 feet of 10-inch sewer and 261 feet of 8-inch sewer.

All bids must be in accordance with the Bid Documents and Contract Drawings on file with the City Engineer of Sedalia, Missouri, and in the office of Burns & McDonnell Engineering Company, 4600 East 63rd Street Trafficway, Kansas City, Missouri 64141.

Copies of the Bid Documents and Contract Drawings may be obtained for bidding purposes from Burns & McDonnell Engineering Company upon deposit of Twenty ($20.00) dollars for each set of documents. Deposits are refundable as provided in the Bid Documents.

Bids received from bidders who are not recorded by Burns & McDonnell Engineering Company as having received the Bid Documents will not be opened.

The Work is to be commenced within thirty calendar days after the date of Notice to Proceed. Completion of the Work is required within 200 days following the date stated in the Notice to Proceed.

Bids will be received on a unit price basis.

A certified check or a Bid Bond satisfactory to the City Clerk, City of Sedalia, Missouri, in the amount of not less than five (5) percent of the stipulated bid price set forth in the Schedule of Unit Prices must accompany each Bid.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish a performance bond and a labor and material payment bond, guaranteeing the performance and the payment of all bills and obligations arising from the performance of the Contract.

Minimum wage rates applicable to the above contract have been predetermined as required by law. Copies of applicable Missouri minimum wage rates are set forth in the Contract Documents and are considered a part of this Invitation to Bid.

The City of Sedalia reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive irregularities therein, and all bidders must agree that such rejection shall be without liability on the part of the Owner for any damage or claim brought by any bidder because of such rejection, nor shall the bidders seek any recourse of any kind against the Owner because of such rejection, and the filing of any bid in response to this invitation shall constitute an agreement of the bidder to these conditions.
